A French army bakery delivering bread to one of the supply stations near the front.

Exclusive photograph, taken by official photographers of the French army and published by special arrangement with the Minister of War.