In the World of Sports—The Leading Tennis Cracks In Action.

HE HEADS THE INFANT LEAGUE—Walter Johnson, jr., aged two, son of the star twirler of the Washington Americans, about to deliver a fast one.
Photo by Harris & Ewing from Paul Thompson.

Scene at the Stadium of the College of the City of New York on July 4, when elementary pupils of the New York public schools gave a demonstration of physical training and athletics for the National Education Association delegates
Photo by Curtis

Francis T. Hunter, the sturdy Cornell tennis leader, holder of The Tribune Cup.
Photo by Edwin Levick

Dean Mathey, national clay court tennis champion with George N. Church, may win a place among the first ten in this year's ranking. Mathey is a Princeton man.
Photo by Edwin Levick.

A sensational, fiery young player is Harold Throckmorton, the national interscholastic tennis champion. He'll rank with the first ten, too, say those who know.
Photo by Edwin Levick.

Karl Behr, the internationalist, who, with T. R. Pell, defeated Mathey and Throckmorton in a smashing challenge match at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club on July 9.
Photo by Edwin Levick.

Theodore Roosevelt Pell, famous backhander. Pell and Behr are the Middle States doubles champions and hold fifth and fourth places, respectively, in last year's rating.
Photo by Edwin Levick.

He hails from Palo Alto, does the famous left-hander, Robert Lindley Murray. He defeated Mathey, Clothier and Behr in a recent invitation tournament at the Nassau Country Club.
Photo by Edwin Levick.