Bicycles

Road Flyers and Continentals

THIS is a great bicycle year. Wheels have had their ups and downs, their booms and their reactions, but they seem settled to a regular common-sense basis now, and has contributed a great deal to this consummation.

The Continental Bicycle

The Continental in its first year was just the best wheel we could have made to sell at fifty dollars. At that price it attacked the ruling hundred dollar wheel, and things began to happen. It has kept pace with bicycle improvement ever since, and at its present price,

Twenty-five Dollars

it is the best all-around bicycle value we know. And we know the wheel business.

We have 150 more of the Road Flyer bicycles at $16. This wheel would seriously contest with the Continental for the leadership in value if we could call it a fixed offer. But it is not,—it is a glorious but transitory bargain. Forty of these 150 wheels are women's models.

The Orient, also,—but you know all about the Orient. $50 and $65.
