Built about 1820 by Pacifico Ortega, who was of the third generation of Ortegas, being a descendant of Jose Francisco Ortega, the first Commandante of the Presidio of Santa Barbara.

The building is now owned by Mr. F. Nardi, and is in good condition, being used as studios.

The house was once in the possession of the Miranda family; their name appears on the property map made in 1850 by the Santa Barbara County Surveyor.

Information from various old residents of Santa Barbara.
