Four nearly identical buildings in the early 2600 series constitute the "Hospital Complex." These buildings (2600, 2601, 2609 and 2610) are located at the northeast corner of the intersection of Eighth and A Streets. Building 2600 was built in 1944 as a dispensary.

A "Mobilization" type of structure, building 2600 has a rectangular plan measuring 25 feet by 69 feet-10 inches, with an 8-foot-by-8-foot offset along the south wall. Its foundation is of concrete piers while the floors, walls and roof are of wood frame construction. The gabled roof is covered with composition shingles and has two louvered, vent cupolas along the roof ridge. The exterior is clad with wood clapboards. Although the windows are boarded over, they are undoubtedly the same as the neighboring buildings which have 8/8 double-hung sash units. The east end of the building is covered by two small gabled roofs, with gables pointing east and north in a pinwheel fashion.

The interior plan consists of a double-loaded corridor with several small rooms on each side. Included are restrooms, a fountain, hot water tanks, steam radiators and lights. Building 2600 seems to be in structurally sound condition.
