These little maids have been to town to purchase postage stamps, and now are much alarmed to note their actions watched by Tommy.
TOPSYS

1. Unfortunate Bertram Bowles
2. The curious Elephant
3. Sturdy Fernando
4. The angry Farmer
5. The watchful Spies
6. Three tender-hearted Wollypogs
7. The polite Japs
8. The ornamented King

TURVYS

8. The tropical Spider
7. The insidious Japs
6. Three fierce Dogs
5. The conspirators
4. The hungry Pig
3. Restful Fernando
2. The ostrich
1. Brave Clarence Cowles
TOPSYS

9 Three smiling Boys
10 Expectant Miranda
11 An Arab Encampment
12 Three innocent Papooses
13 Little Koti
14 Three jolly Jokers
15 An Eastern Magician
16 Three observing Dames

17 Three Bay Hutterites
15 The miraculous Lad
14 Three Highland Citizens
13 The Chinese Giant
12 Three Comfortable Warriors
11 The Storks
10 Sly Santa Claus
9 Three unhappy Boys

TURVYS
TOPSYS

17 Early Mrs. Burley
18 Three friendly Kings
19 Grim Professor Goggles
20 A jovial Sea-serpent
21 The sad Koodoo
22 Some great Explorers
23 Spruce Sammy
24 Some prudent Fishermen

24 A huge Alligator
32 Creedy Sammy
22 Some native Porters
21 The social Seal
20 A black Duck
19 A studied Owl
18 Three accomplished Clowns
17 Industrious Mrs. Burley

TURVYS
TOPSYS

25 Three heaping dishes of Cream
26 Musical Sambo
27 Some dreadful Indians
28 The neat Waiting-maid
29 Three masked Robbers
30 The quiet Author
31 A strange Puzzle

The End
31 The End
30 The Lerged Otalter
29 Three Luckless Ministers
28 The Hungry Guest
27 Some timid Dick-y-birds
26 A talented Banjo
25 Three Voracious Boys

TRUVY
That Clarence Cowles leaned over the edge and holstered Bertram out.

When Bertram Bowles fell off the dock, so loudly did he shout,
The Ostrich has a longer neck and smaller mouth than his.

The Elephant leans on the fence and wonders why it is
Then, placing it upon a rug, he rocks himself to sleep.

Fernando bears his cradle in, a cradle strong and deep,
"The Pig replied, "It's half-past six, and time that I was fed!"

What is that squealing noise I hear?" the angry Farmer said.
Behind each station window there stood a watchful Spy,
But three fierce Dogs came growling out and drove them far away.

Three tender-hearted Wollypogs upon a lawn did play,—
Then everything is kicked in air, and kept there quite a while.

The juggling Japs come on the stage, they bow and sweetly smile,
Because a spider lurks below as large as his head.

Why does this ornamented King gaze on the ground with dread?
Their drawing Friends, kept in, regret they broke the teacher's rule.

These smiling Boys in velvet caps are just let out from school.
And Santa Claus, with pack, slips down the chimney without knocking.

Before the fire, on Christmas Eve, Miranda hangs her stocking,
The Storks, on seeing them, remarked, "It's time for us to go!"

Beneath tall palms some Arabs pitched their tents as white as snow;
But, later on, in high fur cap, it is thus that each appears.

These innocent Papooses thus pass their early years,
But she, s fond, and on his shoulder Kotl leaves her loved Japan.

When she saw the Giant coming, Kotl hid behind her fan,
"Three frightened Citizens exclaimed, "My goodness! Who are you?"

From three high hats three Jokers popped, all crying "'Peek-a-boo!"
His turban does, and from it draws alad of large proportions.

A skilled Magician from the East, with many queer contortions,
From butterflies that flit about the meadows everywhere.

These Dames have modeled skilfully the gorgeous hats they wear.
When it’s later, the spectator sees her hang the clothes to dry.

Rising early, Mrs. Burley in her garden meets the eye;
And there saw clever balancers by three accomplished clowns.

Three friendly Kings went to a show, and wore their pipes and crowns,
He's just been told his last studio owl does much resemble him.

Professor Goggles, taxidermist, certainly looks grim.
But others claim this Duck was seen, and then the fact distorted.

Some say the famed Sea-serpent came, and by the shore disported,
The Seal invites two lively snakes to come and spend the day.

The Koodoo stays alone and dreams of loved ones far away;
Then follow native Porters, almost hidden in the Grass.

Here come the great Explorers; in Indian file they pass;
But of his table-manners it would not do to tell.

How sprucely Sammy parts his hair the neighbors all know well.
Because an alligator bade us grumble in the bay.

Some Fishermen went out to fish — but did not care to stay,
Three heaping plates of cold Ice-Cream were standing in a row;
Then the banjo borrows Sambo's fiddle and plays a tune to him.

First young Sambo plays the banjo, and he twangs it with a vim,
And all the timid Dicky-birds are silent in the shade.

Some Indians in war-paint come tiptoeing through the glade,
The bell is rung — the hungry Guest comes in and takes a seat.

The tray is brought in by the Maid with cap and apron neat,
Three Merry Ministers, passing by were for their purses asked.

Three Robbers strode into the road, and each of them was masked.
But when he comes to speak his piece just see what animation!

How quietly this learned Man writes out his great oration,
We find the ending of this book in plaintest text asserted.

And now appears a mystic word, but if it be inverted,

31
