

Ferdinand Foch, Marshal of France

GENERALISSIMO OF ALL THE ALLIED FORCES IN THE WORLD WAR

Painted by Lawrence Harris

Unfolded flat copy of the Color-graphic Section, admirably suited for framing, will be mailed post-paid on receipt of 25 cents; three copies for 50 cents.

One of the humblest of men, quiet and retiring, the brilliancy of his genius is hailed throughout the world. His indomitable will to victory made defeat impossible. Foch, foremost strategist of the great war, said the American soldiers "can be reproached only with rushing ahead too fast—it is necessary to hold them back." Constantly attended by his doctor, he defied even his physical sufferings.
