

Name: Michael Bundschuh

Class of works: I am writing in support of Class #3 (Unskippable DVD Advertising): Audiovisual works released on DVD that contain access control measures that interfere with the ability to control private performance, including the ability to skip promotional materials.

Summary:

Disc name: Pete Yorn

I bought a CD of Pete Yorn's "Music For The Morning After", a new and upcoming artist with a light alternative rock sound. Sony and Columbia are distributing the CD I bought; nothing on it says it is copy-protected in any way. However, I have a problem playing it on two of my CD players (one in my Volvo car, another in a Panasonic shelf stereo). It plays fine on my Sony CD player. Its a real shame -- CD technology has been around for 10 years and I expect any CD I buy to work in any CD player. Adding copy protection is ineffective and just mucks up the user experience as I have have just documented.