

I am a regular iphone, ipad & gaming console user that would not even purchase for example an iphone if I couldn't jailbreak it. I think that jailbreaking should be legal because I have paid for my device, which means its mine and I can do whatever I want with it. If I weren't able to jailbreak, I wouldn't be able to have cool themes, apps, utilities and much more that apple didn't think of. Jailbreaking is the perfect way to improve your iphone, ipad or whatever device you're using. You can make it the way YOU want, and it doesn't hurt anyone. Also, apple can learn from all these apps, tweaks and utilities and maybe unclude it in their next software update. I don't think jailbreaking hurts anyone and people can get much more out of their devices!
