

Hello,

As a regular hobbyist/end user, I'd like jailbreaking to remain as a legal available option for smartphones and tablets, particularly the iPhone.

Jailbreaking allows me to utilize my iPhone efficiently, the way it was designed to be used. Tweaks made available through jailbreaking allows me to access settings, SMS, email, and apps much faster with one hand. I'm able to get news and information quickly.

I like to use the iPhone OS to its fullest extent, and only jailbreaking allows this.

I ask that you keep jailbreaking legal. Why would something as easy to do as jailbreaking be considered illegal? It's ridiculous to me to think that it would be illegal to jailbreak a device I own (paid for with my own money).

Thank you for hearing me,
Brandon Nelson
brandonln@gmail.com