- Which jailbreaking exemption are you supporting—smartphones/tablets, video game consoles, or both? iPad, iPhone, iPod
- What's your background (i.e., are you a developer, hobbyist, academic, independent researcher, user, etc.)? Security Analyst
- What device do you want to ensure you have the legal authority to jailbreak? iPad, iPod, iPhone
- Please explain why you want to jailbreak this device. What limitations do you face if you aren't able to jailbreak it? We are jailbreaking these devices because we have an online banking application that we need to ensure that our members banking information is not accessible. We run our own testing and reverse engineer the app looking for vulnerabilities.
- Is there software you couldn't run, computing capabilities you wouldn't have, cool things you couldn't do, etc.? We need the ability to SSH into the devices and get root access.
- If you're a developer, did an online application store or console manufacturer reject your app or game? If so, what reasons did they give? N/A
- Is there anything else you want to tell the Copyright Office? Jailbreaking allows us to test our app to make sure it is secure for our members. It's essential to protecting online banking through mobile applications.
