

To whom it may concern,

My name is Jason Grucela and I am writing this letter to inform you on my stance on the library of congress extending the ruling making "jail breaking" legal for Class 5 devices. It is my belief that smart phones and tablets are nothing more than computers in there own rights. Losing the ability to jailbreak my device takes away my right as a consumer to load any software that I want on a device that I own.

It blows my mind that in a free country. We have to worry about, whether or not we can do what we want with devices that we own. Or whether the company that we purchased the device from in the first place will allow us to load something on it that they don't approve of. As far as I am concerned once I buy a product it is mine to do with as I please and the company that made it no longer has any rights to it.

Sincerely,
Jason Grucela
