

I am a technology enthusiast as well as a prospected video game designer. I think allowing the "jailbreaking" of digital devices is vital for the growth of the market. As well as vital to maintain the consumer's freedom. It expands creativity and ingenuity in the digital realm and really helps people get what they need from their digital devices such as their iPhones, video games consoles, etc. I urge you to at least extend the DMCA.