

Allowing companies to lock down devices sold to consumers is like having GM sell you a Camaro with the hood welded shut. If I buy a device, I should be able to modify it to fit my needs. Consumers should be able to fully own and control the property they purchased.