

This devices are bought with a high price and should be fully under the control of the owner, who should decide wether to keep it secure or use it as a dish for eating.

So Apple should give the customer the right to own his device AS soon As he/she pays.

For the illegal copyright, this should be applied against individuals not against Jailbreak that can be used in either ways.

The same situation with illegal copyright can be violated through any Operating System such as Microsoft windows that have too much copy right effected software's that when we compare, we need to stop Microsoft then from providing window!
