

Thomas Stadler

Class "5"

The use of said hardware iPhone 4s durring an open hardware platform allows for full use of it's capabilities. Not just those limited to as provider of OS. These are indipendent items when viewed my many other platforms such as PC's. Through there use of said tools to allow this is no more than the use of an open PC. Restirictions placed by manufactures only limits the use of all of the device. Granted this should void OS warranties and may void warranty this should not be the responsibility of hardware manufactorers but the users involved and accepting these risks. Current device in question is the Apple iPhone 4s.