

OLYMPIAN... HELD THE NATIVE... Aqueduct Stewards Thought He Could and Put Him Up in Place of Powers.

Peculiar Betting Did Not Prevent Mirage Running Marshall to a Neck in a Hard Finish.

SIR FRANCIS HAD AN EASY TASK. Another Big Crowd Had the Satisfaction of Seeing Favorites Win Five Out of Seven Events at the Seaside Race Course.

There was another surprisingly good attendance at Aqueduct yesterday in spite of the threatening weather... The betting was very heavy... The race was a hard one...

Seven events were on the card, but as the second race was reduced to two starts... The first race was won by Sir Francis... The second race was won by Mirage...

The betting on the fourth event—3 to 1 on Marshall, who Sims had the mount, and 3 to 1 on Mirage... The race was a hard one...

M'CLELLAND'S LONG SHOT. Robair Escaped the Notice of the Smart Ones and Won at Odds of 6 to 1.

Cincinnati, July 20.—Three favorites won at Latonia to-day, but, though the card was large, it was of a cheap quality, and did not attract a large crowd... Robair, who won at 6 to 1, is by Byron McClelland's Bookbinder, two-year-old, and the price against him should have been shorter...

SURPRISE AT MILWAUKEE. Corrigan's Sister Adele Defeats Good Two-Year-Olds at Odds of 100 to 1.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 20.—Ed Corrigan's filly, Sister Adele, a two-year-old half sister to Ethel, won the two-year-old selling race at six furlongs, with 100 to 1 about her over her entered selling price by T. P. Hayes, the three-year-old Ronde was bid up $5,000 by Corrigan recently at Latonia... Sister Adele beat a good lot of youngsters, including the California colt Scarborough, King's Counsel, on whom "Board of Trade" Smith stood to make a killing, and Don Clarendo, the full brother to Armitage...

Sister Adele is a shapely filly, and comes by her speed honestly... She has shown marked improvement since she was in the hands of the Burrs & Waterhouse pair last year and second in the Schlitz Handicap at seven furlongs, and indicated that she was in good luck by a deep credit in the books... Buckwa won handily at one mile and seventy yards... Prince Lief was shipped from here to Cincinnati... He was grown in the Springfield Stable landed the opening dash at six furlongs, all out and staggering... Belle Boyd took the closing event easily, beating Minnie W. and the Santa Anita Stable's Counterfeit, half brother to Alamo... The California horses seem to be just rounding to...

Ben Crisp, who was looked upon as a sure winner, will not start, as he cut the tendons of his left fore leg while working at Grand Rapids last week... Orin Hickok's great mare, Dione, has also gone wrong, and will not start... The other entries are: Grand Rapids, owned by J. W. Stinson, of Chicago, will drive his great four-in-hand to beat 2:30...

GLAD THE JOURNAL SUPPORTS BRYAN. Not Only Loyal Democrats but Many Republicans as Well Send Letters.

Vows to Aid in His Election Mingle with Commendation of the Paper.

FRIENDS SPRINGING UP FAST. Avalanche of Letters Indicates That the Rank and File of the Party Will Be Found True to its Standard Bearer.

Letters are still coming to the Journal from widely separated parts of the country commending its course in declaring for Bryan and Sewall. The outpouring of gladness, as spontaneous as it is unprecedented of its kind in extent, may well be taken to indicate that the rank and file of the Democracy will be found true to the standard bearers of the party at the polls next November. It is no less significant that the great avalanche of letters comprises a large proportion from men of other parties, notably the Republican, breathing fully as enthusiastically a feeling for the Chicago nominee. Some of the letters follow:

DAILY WINNING VOTES. South Butler, N. Y., July 16, 1896. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: The able and judicious support you are giving to the Democratic standard bearers, Bryan and Sewall, is worthy of commendation by all Democrats. Therefore the Democrats in this locality extend to you their hearty congratulations. Your editorials are masterly productions, and are winning votes every day. Democrats who were greatly dissatisfied and indifferent toward the Democratic candidates placed in nomination by the Democratic party at Chicago are eagerly falling back into line after reading and considering your editorial in Monday's issue, July 13.

BACK IN THE FOLD. Danville, Va., July 16, 1896. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: I cannot withhold a word of commendation for your excellent and able arguments for the regularly chosen candidates of the Democracy and in support of the regularly adopted platform of the party. By your work many converts have already been won back into the Democratic fold.

WORKING FOR BRYAN. Binghamton, N. Y., July 16, 1896. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: Your course in reference to the Chicago platform and ticket is enthusiastically endorsed by Democrats here. It is a pleasure in pointing out the excellent and wise course of your paper. Others are winning converts to Bryan in the same way.

PLATFORM IS RIGHT. Washington, July 16, 1896. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: It is a pleasure to me to see the strong paper in New York has the nerve to stand by the masses as against the overwhelming pressure of the classes. I take pleasure in reading the Journal, as I believe it reflects the real sentiments of the situation, unblinded by the influence of corporate wealth. The Bryan platform is right—eternally right.

CONVERTED TO BRYAN. No. 145 Broadway, July 17, 1896. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: Your double-barreled charge on the Sun this morning was worth the price of the Journal one year. If I ever had any doubts about supporting Bryan and Sewall they were removed by your arguments. E. E. D.

WILL HELP BRYAN. Wellington, Mass., July 15, 1896. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: I congratulate you upon the noble stand your paper has taken for the candidate of the people, and if I can by tongue or pen aid Mr. Bryan I will gladly undertake to do so. Mr. Marat Halstead knows me as the opponent of the present Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Carlisle, in the race for Representative from Covington, conducted in 1887.

LOYALTY WINS PRAISE. Bradford, Pa., July 15, 1896. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: A great many people up here are very glad to see the Journal come out and espouse the cause of the Democratic ticket. We have read with much interest the articles, pro and con, appearing in your paper upon the money question, and are indebted to you for conspicuous enlightenment on that subject—and that is what we common people want—enlightenment. I never met so many men hesitating which way they will vote as this year. A COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER.

TOILERS NEED BRYAN. New York, July 17, 1896. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: Permit me to express my sincere satisfaction as a Democrat for the straightforward paper. Your great work will be fully appreciated by every honest and patriotic toiler and Democrat of the Union who will not forget their sacred duty next November, and will remember that the man named is W. J. Bryan.

MANY CONVERTS MADE. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: The Journal is accomplishing more for the nominees and platform of the Chicago convention than any other medium whose influence is brought to bear on the citizens of Syracuse. The Journal is being eagerly read here by the people, and the number of conversions it has accomplished is truly phenomenal. I know of at least a dozen Republicans in fourteen years of age, and the latter thirteen, the President says the boys are "utterly ignorant" and seem to have but a slight, if any, appreciation of the enormity of their offense.

THE COUNTRY DISTRICTS ROUND ABOUT ARE SOLD BY BRYAN. SYRACUSE SILVERITE. Syracuse, N. Y., July 15, 1896.

PEOPLE WANT FACTS. New York, July 17, 1896. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: As this is a campaign, not of parties, but of ideas, I am exceedingly glad that the Journal gives the reading public the truth and only the truth in its columns. While many other so-called Democratic newspapers endeavor to sneer the Journal answers with brainy editorials and honest facts, and success will be with you, as the thinking and honest people are with you.

EVERY MAN'S PAPER. South Amboy, N. J., July 14, 1896. To W. R. Hearst, the Journal, New York: Please accept my congratulations upon the stand which the Journal has taken in endorsing the candidacies of Messrs. Bryan and Sewall, our next President and Vice-President, respectively. JOHN F. MARTIN.

SIR HENRY'S SON WEDS. Miss Dorothea Baird, London's Famous "Tribly" Now Mrs. Henry Irving. London, July 20.—Henry Irving, Jr., son of the eminent English actor, Sir Henry Irving, was married to-day to Miss Dorothea Baird, who has made such a striking success in the character of Tribly at the Haymarket Theatre. There was a large gathering of members of the theatrical profession.

MISS DOTOHEA BAIRD. The gift of Du Maurier, the author of "Tribly" to the bride was a massive diamond pendant. The ceremony was performed in St. Pancras Church, in the presence of the bridegroom's parents, Sir Henry Irving and Lady Irving. Miss Ellen Terry was also present.

MR. KINNEY INVESTS IN LAND. Millionaire Cigarette Man Buys Narragansett Pier Acres. Narragansett Pier, R. I., July 20.—A sale of a large piece of land made to-day created quite a stir among property-owners at the pier. Mr. Kinney's magnificent new mansion of cream stone and tiles, and the millionaire has announced his intention of building upon it a number of very handsome cottages.

BRAKEMAN LOSES HIS LIFE. Killed on a Train Which Afterwards Collides with a Depot. Winsted, Conn., July 20.—Train No. 302 on the Naugatuck Division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad proved itself to be unlucky to-day. At Ansonia Charles Hawley, a brakeman, had his left arm cut off and sustained internal injuries, which resulted in his death a few hours later.

THREE WILL NOT HANG. President Saves a Trio of Criminals from the Executioner. Washington, July 20.—The President has commuted to imprisonment for life the death sentence of John C. Bell, of Texas. Both the trial judge and District Attorney urged this commutation. Nothing had been said about the commutation of the other two men, but they were spared.

TWO MEN MISSING IN CONNECTICUT. Winsted, Conn., July 20.—Relatives of Sheldon Norton, aged thirty, of New Hartford, Mass., who it has been slain by robbers or tramps, he has not been seen since last Thursday, and search for the missing man fails to reveal any clue to his whereabouts. Nothing had been heard of Henry Cleveland, aged seventeen, who mysteriously disappeared from his home here two weeks ago.

RURAL INN ON THE DEVON COAST. Pleasures to Be Had at the Old-Fashioned English Institution.

Little Fishing Village That Can Boast of Four Centuries of History Making.

IT HAS TWO CONSISTENT DRUNKARDS. One an Irishman Full of Years and Humor, the Other an Ancient Mariner Who Closely Resembles "Dick Deadeye."

The Devon Coast, July 24.—The old-fashioned country inn is one of the English institutions that I would gladly see transplanted to my own country. I am sure it would take root and flourish in the warmth of popular appreciation as certain other institutions never have.

MRS. FLEMING TO STAR. Expects to Appear at a New York Theatre in "Circumstantial Evidence." "In all probability I shall accept the proposition of a certain theatrical manager and appear at a prominent New York theatre in a play that is now being written for me," said Mrs. Mary Allen Almon-Livingston yesterday as she left the office of her attorney, John C. Shaw, No. 106 Fulton street, accompanied by her son Walter. "I am not in a position at this time to give you either the name of the manager or the title of the play, but this much I will say: the play will deal with certain incidents of my recent trial, and in all probability it will be called 'Circumstantial Evidence.' I expect to perfect my plans in two weeks."

is not yet mutton and the mint whetwith it is avoided. During the long evenings—it does not grow dark until after 9 o'clock—the balcony in front of the house, or else in the tap-room, which is hung with red and China mugs and curious bits of old brass, washing pans, kettles, braziers and saucepans, all bright with continual rubbing. The room has a staid floor, and there are screens about the open grate, affording snug seats for tipplers and lozenges, on which to rest their glasses. I will remark that unfortunately for the bar trade, the village can boast of two regular and consistent drunkards, who have a feeling for the man has the courage to keep an inn open the year round with so little to fall back on during the off season.

One of these drunkards is an Irishman, full of years and humor; the other is a mariner of perhaps fourscore years, who bears a close resemblance to Dick Deadeye. Both gentlemen contribute to the nightly "conversations" in the tap-room from well husbanded stores of anecdotal lore. But there is a senny side to this ideal rural life as discovered yesterday morning, and I do not like to be stared at as an "object of interest," or to be watched through the open window of a people of open-mouthed British tourists when I am peacefully writing or eating. Hereafter I used to contemplate with so much amusement before I knew how much I was some of the real celebrities of the city were.

The climax was reached yesterday morning when I was aroused from my work by certain mournful squeaking sounds, which brought up memories of aims-seeking blind men led by dogs through crowded thoroughfares, and I looked out of my window and beheld a tourist playing an accordion in the middle of the street. And yet with inquiry of this sort rampant in the three kingdoms, the House of Lords is busily engaged in passing bills as the "Deceased Wife's Sister Bill," now up for its thousandth reading.

JAMES L. FORD. "In all probability I shall accept the proposition of a certain theatrical manager and appear at a prominent New York theatre in a play that is now being written for me," said Mrs. Mary Allen Almon-Livingston yesterday as she left the office of her attorney, John C. Mrs. Fleming came up from her Long Branch cottage in an automobile driven directly to Mr. Shaw's office, where she met Ferdinand Wallace, "the result of accident," as she declared. She had luncheon with Wallace, and she went to her attorney's office again.

At present I have no intention of marrying Ferdinand Wallace, and I do not care to discuss the event at this time. She said in answer to a question: "Today you know is the birthday of my little daughter and my real business in town is to buy bicycles for her and my son Walter, who was recovering from the strain of the trial. Yesterday one of the United States Express wagons drew up at Police Headquarters, and the driver entered properly City Hall and presented an order signed by Mrs. Fleming for the trunk containing clothes belonging to her detained there. They were delivered to the police company and shipped to Long Branch, where the woman is now stopping."
