Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 10.

To the Editor of the Journal:

I congratulate the Journal on its wonderful work during the past few months. The improvement is without precedent in the history of journalism. In the twinkling of an eye the Journal has become one of the most conspicuous and attractive papers in the country. With the Journal at one cent it seems that its active competitors must either meet the price or suffer.

CLARK HOWELL, Editor of the Atlanta Constitution.

BROKEN EVERY RECORD.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 10. To the Editor of the Journal:

Usually it is the work of years to bring a newspaper from almost the lowest to one of the highest positions in the journalistic world. You have broken every record, and today have a paper that is a credit to the nation; complete in all its departments; giving absolutely all the news for one cent. The best evidence that the people appreciate such a paper and buy it is the fact that the World has reduced its price, apparently hoping to prevent a further loss in circulation by so doing. You have won a great victory and have a splendid newspaper. Long may you live and prosper.

C. W. PICKETT, Editor New Haven Leader.

AN IMPENDING REVOLUTION FORESEEN.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 10.

To the Editor of the Journal:

When Pulitzer bought the World he revolutionized New York journalism, and the New York Journal bids fair to revolutionize Pulitzer. In the impending conflict between newspaper giants I expect to hear of newspaper consolidations and newspaper funerals in New York, and the end will certainly not come till the Journal has won the place it seeks.

G. M. HITCHCOCK, Publisher Omaha World-Herald.

COMMENDABLE SERVICE.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 10.

To the Editor of the Journal:

The Journal's move toward bringing the newspapers of the metropolis to a one cent basis is most commendable and a distinct service to the national public.

H. B. METCALF, Editor Concord Monitor.

WONDERFUL NEWSPAPER.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 10.

To the Editor of the Journal:

The Journal for a cent is such a wonderful newspaper that I am not surprised at any of its achievements.

W. S. COPELAND, Editor The State.

ITS SUCCESS IS NATURAL.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 10.

To the Editor of the Journal:

People are always looking for a cheap, good thing. You were giving them that; t'other fellows were not. The Journal's success is natural as well as deserved. Here's to more of it for you.

R. F. PAINE, Editor Cleveland Press.

GREATEST OF METROPOLITAN NEWSPAPERS

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 10.

W. R. Hearst, Editor of the Journal:

You have won a great triumph. It shows what pluck, energy and ability can accomplish, and establishes the position of the Journal as one of the greatest of metropolitan newspapers. But if you don't watch out Wales and Rosebery and Rothschilds will be after you with a sharp stick. Have a care, or the World will refuse to interfere in the next war with England, and will not indorse for Uncle Sam the next time he gets strapped.

J. C. HEMPHILL, Editor Charleston News.

COMPLSORY REDUCTION.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 10.

To the Editor of the Journal:

The Journal undoubtedly compelled the World to reduce its price to a one cent basis, and the price will remain on that basis unless the Journal and the World compromise on a price that will enable a new one cent paper to gain a footing.

R. P. CLARKSON, Editor Des Moines Register.

A PENNY PAPER'S POWER.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 10.

To the Editor of the Journal:

The Journal is a splendid newspaper. I can readily see that a penny paper as complete, enterprising and interesting as is the Journal must be influential both before the public and in the counting-rooms of its competitors.

J. B. MORROW, Editor Cleveland Leader.

AN ADMITTED SUCCESS.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 10.

To the Editor of the Journal:

We congratulate you on your success, which even the World has been forced to admit.

Editor Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

THE NEATEST OF COUPS.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 10.

To the Editor of the Journal:

The forcing of the World to one cent is one of the neatest coups in New York newspaper history.

Editor Indianapolis Journal.

COMMANDING ENTERPRISE

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 10.

To the Editor of the Journal:

New York is greatly indebted for your commanding enterprise in giving to the people a progressive newspaper at the lowest possible price.

PATRICK WALSH, Editor Augusta Chronicle.

MORE LOCAL OPINIONS.

Richard Croker.—The Journal has started right. It is bright, CLEAN and fair, and is bound to be a winner.

Dr. Joseph H. Sanner, Immigration Commissioner: Nothing that I have ever seen or heard of in the world of journalism equals the story of the extraordinary rise of the Journal under its new management. I speak plainly when I say that one year ago I would not handle a copy of the paper. Before that I saw a sheet which appealed to the worst instincts of human nature. I gave up taking it, and never saw a copy until three months ago. Then I was honestly amazed at the change which I witnessed. It was about as CLEAN a paper as I had ever read. Its articles were of such a nature as could be read by man, woman and child alike. It told all the news, and its cablegrams were such as to put in the shade all those published in the other papers. I have watched it carefully from that day to this. I took a kind of pride in hearing other men praise it.

Newsiest and Ablest.

County Clerk Henry D. Purroy.

The wonderful improvement that has taken place in the Journal during the past six months is the subject of everyday comment among public men. Its circulation and influence must have increased very largely, for nowadays I see it in the hands of every one, and it has undoubtedly developed into one of the newsiest, most interesting and ablest papers in this city.

HENRY D. PURROY.

Moral Tone is Excellent.

Leonard Moody, Brooklyn Real Estate Dealer.

I regard the Journal as a gem. Under the new management it has pushed its way to the front rank of journalism. I read it with pleasure regularly. It publishes all the news in a clean, bright and attractive shape. The moral tone of the Journal is excellent, making it a safe family paper. I like the Journal for its patriotism and sterling Americanism. I wish it every success and believe that, if it is conducted on present lines, it will surpass the most sanguine expectations of its enterprising editor and proprietor.

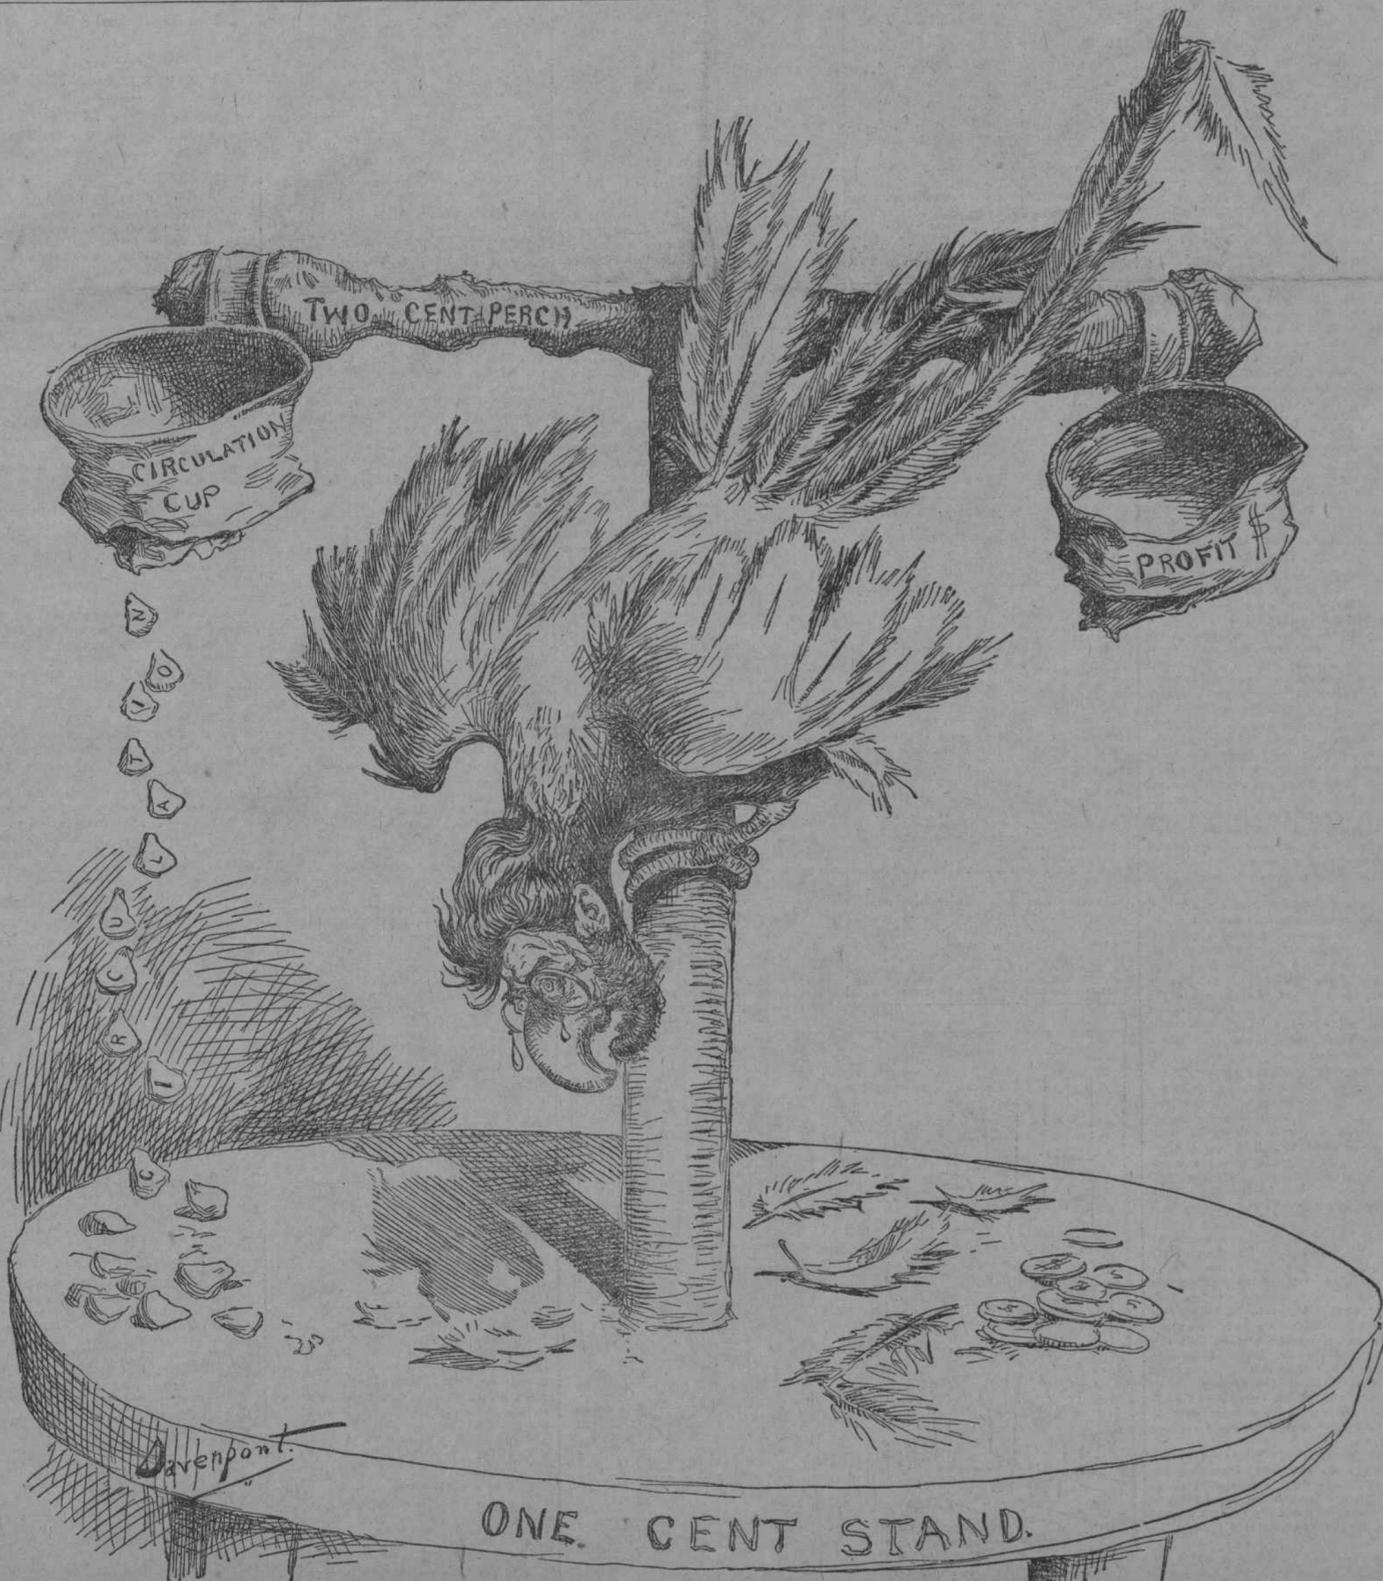

LEONARD MOODY.

Bright and Clear in Tone.

A. T. Sullivan, Postmaster Br.oklyn.

I read the Journal with enjoyment. I have noticed with extreme pleasure the wonderful improvement of the paper in every direction. It is newsy, bright and clean in tone. I say this as a matter of plain truth and not with any intention to flatter. The Journal now occupies a most enviable place in the newspaper world. I admire the good judgment and enterprise which now characterize the Journal.

A. T. SULLIVAN.

Coming Off the Perch.

A GREAT NEWSPAPER.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 10.

W. R. Hearst, Editor of the Journal:

The World in reducing to one cent must have recognized the fact that the Journal has come to stay. Having so concluded, there remained nothing else to do. I some time ago thought a great one cent newspaper was "a long felt want" in New York City, and I had some aspirations in that direction. You have supplied the want in a manner that amazes me, and I stand in awe and admiration at the audacity of your enterprise and the genius of your newspaper making ability.

ADOLPH S. OCHS, Editor Chattanooga Times.

MORE LOCAL OPINIONS.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton: I am glad to be able to say, from what I have recently seen of the Journal, that it is a bright, interesting paper. It seems to give all the news and produce it in a manner that makes it readable. It is printed with good type, too, and that is a great thing for old people, or others with weak eyes. I am eighty years old, and cannot read more than the headlines myself, but my children keep me aware of what is going on. It is of especial interest to me that the Journal gives so much space to the woman's question, and your paper's articles and remarks on that subject are of value to all female suffragists.

Mrs. Lillie Devereux Blake: In my reading of the Journal lately I have necessarily noticed that it is a clear, CLEAN, crisp newspaper. It has struck me as being a desirable, everyday friend to all who want to get all the news, and have it printed in interesting style. I have read other papers for many years, but I can say I like the present Journal very much. It is a pleasure to me to see how interested the Journal is in the affairs of woman, and I might add that that question, and the way it is dealt with by the Journal, is going to help the paper.

Accurate in Its Reports.

District-Attorney John R. Fellows.

I find the Journal admirable. It has a most exhilarating dash and sparkle about it. And, so far as my own observation and knowledge extend, its reports are exceedingly accurate.

J. R. FELLOWS.

Best of American Papers:

William C. Bryant, Brooklyn Fire Commissioner.

When the Journal made its appearance under its present management I predicted it would be the greatest newspaper in New York City. It promises to reach first place in circulation and influence in a time so incredibly short that I must confess it has done far more than even I expected. It will be the best of American newspapers, as well as the one with the largest circulation, and the best list of advertisers. Success to the Journal.

Read by the Best Class.

Andrew Baird, Brooklyn Bridge Commissioner.

I am pleased to congratulate the present editors and managers of the Journal upon the magnificent improvement in the paper. It is now a CLEAN, readable, newsy daily, in my opinion a leader among the New York papers. I am sure the value of the Journal will be generally recognized. As soon as the people know what a change has been made in the Journal there will be a boom in its circulation simply unprecedented. I can see every day here in Brooklyn that the paper is read by the best class of people, the sort of readers who have no time to waste on trashy sheets. Many men I meet agree with me that the Journal is the coming paper. Liberal and intelligent management are bound to tell.

ANDREW J. BAIRD.
