

ROY ACCUSED THE WITNESS OF LYING. Unexpected Testimony in the Prosecution of Mrs. Minnie Sparks.

She is Accused by Mrs. Titus of Sending Objectionable Matter Through the Mails.

MRS. DEAN'S INTERESTING TESTIMONY. It was Her Statement that Aroused the Assistant District-Attorney's Wrath.

Mrs. Minnie Sparks, the wife of an engineer in a theatre, was arrested in March, charged with sending objectionable matter through the mails.

Mrs. Titus was a comely young woman, the wife of a captain of a steam yacht. Her story was that she received from her husband a letter which had come to him through the mails.

In the office with Mrs. Titus were several of her friends and Lawyer Childs, Assistant United States District-Attorney Roy conducted the prosecution. He placed upon the stand a stout, happy-looking negro, who said she was Mrs. Annie Dean.

"What did Mrs. Titus say to you when she showed you that letter?" he asked. "She said she had received a terrible letter," answered Mrs. Dean.

"What did Mrs. Titus say to you when she showed you that letter?" he asked. "Well," replied the witness, "I said I couldn't believe Mrs. Sparks would do anything like that."

"You're afraid of losing a day's work, I guess," she said. "I am not afraid of anything, but I would not swear to what was not true."

"It's enough," said Mr. Devenny, trying to get her to talk. "It's strange," retorted Mr. Roy, "that you should ask questions, knowing just what the answers would be."

"I know more," said Mr. Devenny, warmly. "I intend to apply for a warrant for subornation of perjury. This woman and her lawyers have been following up the witness, trying to get her to swear to what was false."

"Oh! Oh!" said the ladies behind Mr. Roy, as they glared at Mr. Devenny. "Don't be so strong," said the Assistant District-Attorney. "This woman has come here and lied."

"You have no right to say that," objected Devenny. "Yes, I have," answered Roy, hotly. "She lied!"

That ended the examination of Mrs. Dean, who gave place to George Titus, the fifteen-year-old son of the complainant, whose testimony was unimportant. The hearing was adjourned for two weeks.

ACCUSED BY HER SERVANT. Maggie Haughey Declares Mrs. Sherman Dragged Her About the Kitchen by the Hair.

Mrs. Annie Sherman, wife of John D. W. Sherman, a wholesale liquor merchant at Nos. 1 and 3 Front street, New York, and residing in the most fashionable section of Kensington, on the Ocean Boulevard, Brooklyn, has been summoned to appear before Justice Steers, in the Grant Street Police Court, this morning, for an alleged assault upon her domestic.

The complainant, Miss Maggie Haughey, at present residing at No. 423 West street, New York, claims that she has been employed by Mrs. Sherman about two months, during which time her life has been anything but pleasant. The climax, she alleges, occurred on Sunday night. The domestic was in the kitchen attending to her night duties, according to Mrs. Sherman's story, when she was dragged by the hair to go out to see her husband. When Maggie pleaded to be allowed to go, Mrs. Sherman, it is alleged, seized her by the arm, pulled her around the room and then, when the sieve of her dress tore, dragged her around the floor. This, it is alleged, did not satisfy the anger of Mrs. Sherman, and she then drew her into the laundry and locked up for twenty minutes. When released, Mrs. Sherman ejected her from the house.

Mrs. Sherman was called into the Grant Street Police Court about a year ago by another domestic, named Mary Cahill, residing at No. 2 Front street, Brooklyn, who claimed that Mrs. Sherman assaulted her. The case was not brought to trial, as the complainant refused to appear to prosecute. Maggie Haughey has retained Lawyer Christian J. Boyle to prosecute her suit against Mrs. Sherman for $1,000 damages. Mrs. Sherman denies that there was any assault whatever. She says that she only told her to leave on Sunday night. No violence was used toward the girl at all, she declares.

CAUSES MANY ACCIDENTS. "L" Road Pillar Opposite No. 5 Fulton Street a Menace to Passengers on Trolley Cars.

In front of No. 5 Fulton street, Brooklyn, and within fourteen inches of the trolley car tracks on either side, stands a pillar of the Kings County Elevated Railroad. Passing cars almost graze its sides.

Many accidents have occurred at this point. All of them might have been averted, it is claimed, had the pillar been located in the center of the street, as the other pillars supporting the "L" structure are.

Passengers boarding cars or alighting therefrom at Fulton ferry frequently collide with the pillar, and are severely injured. Here is a partial list of the accidents due to it:

May 2—Archer Strauss, twenty-seven years of age, No. 360 Rookaway street, arm fractured by coming in contact with the pillar in boarding a car.

May 8—John Greaves, thirty-two years of age, No. 449 Central avenue, back and chest injured while boarding a car.

May 10—John McNulty, thirty-two years of age, No. 62 Fulton street, collar bone and shoulder blade fractured; still in hospital.

May 21—Jacob Jacobs, thirty-four years of age, New Lots road, arm and leg fractured; jammed against pillar and badly injured.

May 22—Charles Klein, thirty-three years of age, No. 401 East Houston street, New York, spine fractured while alighting from a Fifth avenue car; at New York Hospital; injuries will probably prove fatal.

May 27—Ernest Richter, thirty years of age, No. 240 Stockton street, collar bone fractured; was thrown against pillar while trying to board a car; arm and leg injured.

The Nassau Electric Railroad Company claims that the pillar should be removed. The Kings County Elevated Road contends that the surface railroad tracks should be removed. City Works Commissioner Van Dyke promised yesterday to order an investigation and make the responsible company take steps to prevent any more accidents at that point.

TO GIVE CHILDREN A SAIL. Mayor Gleason Has Engaged a Steamboat and Five Berges for an Excursion.

Mayor Gleason is going to give an excursion to the school children of Long Island City. Yesterday he engaged the steamer Warden Starin and the barges Nelson, Warren, Sumner, Arthur and Vanderbilt for Monday, August 3. There are five wards in the city, and a barge will be at the disposal of the children of each school. Their total capacity will be 7,000 children.

Mayor Gleason will pay all the expenses. He has engaged music for dancing and will furnish the children with cream, ice cream and soft drinks. The excursion will go around Greater New York. It will leave Long Island City and go along the Brooklyn shore as far as the limit of Greater New York, around Staten Island and then up the Hudson as far as Yonkers and back again to Long Island City.

A TROLLEY EXPRESS SYSTEM. Brooklyn City Railroad to Begin Operating Cars Next Week.

The Brooklyn City Railway will next week inaugurate its trolley express system. Eight cars are just having the finishing touches put to them and will be ready for service next Wednesday. The cars are thirty feet long and built on the same lines as the mail cars used by the Metropolitan Traction Company. They are finished in blue, and on either side in red and white.

The "Brooklyn City Railway and National Electric Company."

There are front and rear platforms and swing doors to the cars. It is the intention to operate the cars on all trolley lines in Brooklyn and on Long Island, and notes and packages will be delivered to any address.

MGR. M'NAMARA'S MISSION. It Will Open in Brooklyn Sunday and Continue a Week.

Following the example of the Paulist Fathers in New York, Mr. McNamara, rector of St. Joseph's Church, on Pacific street, Brooklyn, is going to give a mission for non-Catholics in the school hall, on Dean street. The mission will be in charge of the Rev. Richard M. Ryan. It will open on Sunday and continue throughout the week. There will be two discourses each evening. Father Ryan will be assisted by able speakers and theologians, and any questions propounded by the congregation will be answered by them. There will be no strictly religious exercises except the reading of a verse from the Scriptures. The admission will be free and there will be no collections. Congregational singing of hymns will be one of the features of the mission.

Stole Because He Was Hungry. William Carl, twenty-eight years old, an expressman, of No. 100 East Broadway, was arrested yesterday afternoon at Lee avenue and Bond street, Williamsburg, for stealing a purse containing $3 from Miss Carrie Michaels, of No. 80 Lee avenue. Miss Michaels was walking on Rodney street, near her home, when the purse was snatched from her hand. Carl ran into the arms of a policeman. The purse was found on the prisoner, who said he was hungry, and could not resist the temptation to steal.

Where Is Frank Squires, Grocer? Report, L. I., May 28.—Search is being made for Frank Squires, clerk for Snedecor & Squires, general storekeepers, of this place, and brother of one of the partners. He disappeared on Monday. He started to deliver groceries on his route through Blue Point, but delivered only a small part. Squires' brother found the horse and wagon and groceries under a shed at Tray's Hotel.

DON'T ASK QUESTIONS OF PARK POLICEMEN. Some New Yorkers Did So and Aroused the Ire of the Entire Force.

Eighteen Scared Men Dashed Over Flower Beds and Lawns in Their Efforts to Escape.

ALL BUT ONE GOT SAFELY AWAY. He Was Borne in Triumph to Court and Adjudged Guilty—The Men Had Simply Asked the Way Out of Prospect Park.

Park Policeman James McDonnell yesterday told Justice Steers, in the Grant Street Police Court, Flatbush, that nine horses and carriages had been abandoned in a bunch in Prospect Park yesterday afternoon while three policemen gave chase to the eighteen occupants. From the description given of the chase, the event must have been the most exciting in the annals of the Park police. The men were chased over flower beds, among the shrubs, in and out from behind trees and over the lawns which bear the signs "Keep off the grass."

The chase was simply because the eighteen occupants of the nine buggies got out to ask a single question as to how they could get out of the Park and reach the Coney Island road. That was sufficient to set the whole police department of the people's pleasure ground in a state of excitement. Policeman O'Donnell began chasing the eighteen carriage riders alone. Then Bicycle "Cop" Conway took part. Finally Policeman Dennis F. Moran made an arrest. It was the only arrest made, although seventeen other arrests were scheduled.

The statutory prisoner was Mark Buckner, who said he lived at No. 180 Eldridge street, New York. While the policemen were arranging for some disposition of their prisoner, the other seventeen carriage riders jumped into their vehicles and drove away to a road house.

Mr. Buckner was not put in irons or handcuffed. He was simply escorted to Justice Steers's Police Court, guarded by Policemen O'Donnell and Moran. There two charges were preferred against him. One was that he had told a policeman that he didn't know who he was and the other that he had obstructed the roadway with his horse and wagon and caused a block-ade.

Mr. Buckner told Justice Steers that his party was composed of New Yorkers who had just come from Hoboken, where one of the party had seen his wife off to Europe. The trip to Coney Island was in celebration of the event. They simply asked one policeman a civil question and got abused. He denied calling the policeman names. He declared that he had left his horse and wagon in the driveway for a few moments.

Justice Steers found Buckner guilty of obstructing the driveway, but suspended sentence. The complaint of being abusive to the policeman was dismissed. Justice Steers sighed when the case was over.

DENIES THERE WAS A ROW. Park Commissioner Woodruff Tells Why He Rejected the Cody Contract.

Park Commissioner Woodruff, of Brooklyn, denied yesterday that there was a row in his office between himself and Cody Brothers, as a result of his rejection of the firm's contract for the paving and grading of Glenmore avenue. He said he was satisfied that Cody Brothers would not be able to do the work, and that they had abused him. He declares that James F. Byrnes, whose name appeared on Cody's bond, told him he had not authorized the use of his name.

James Cody said yesterday that the firm was amply equipped, and that they had the right to use Mr. Byrnes' name, as he had given them authority to do so.

WORKMAN DRAGGED BY A CAR. His Foot Caught in a Rope and He Was Seriously Injured.

Joseph Moreen, of No. 150 Twenty-first street, Brooklyn, was working yesterday morning on some flat cars on the tracks of the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company at Bergen Beach. One of the cars started down a grade and Moreen fell as it started. His foot caught in a piece of rope and he was dragged about ten feet before the car was stopped.

Moreen was removed to St. John's Hospital, suffering from a broken leg, severe bruises and shock.

A TEN-YEAR-OLD VAGRANT. Agent Folk Says Fisher Has Been Arrested Twenty Times.

William Fisher, a ten-year-old boy, was arrested before Justice Harriman, in the Gates Avenue Police Court, Brooklyn, yesterday morning, on a charge of vagrancy. He is a tough-looking youngster, and Agent Folk, of the Children's Society, said he had been arrested twenty times on the same charge.

He was turned over to the Society.

Workmen Buried Under a Wall. A side wall in the building at No. 105 Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn, which is in course of construction, for the Children's Society, collapsed at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, burying in plaster and laths two men who had been at work on it. They were Michael Sheehan, of No. 164 West Broadway, New York, and Peter Shay, of No. 26 Park place. Neither was injured seriously, and both went to work after an ambulance surgeon had dressed their wounds.

Hotel Keepers Get Licenses. Riverhead, L. I., May 28.—County Treasurer Darling has issued licenses to the hotel keepers of Kings Park, who have applied for them. There are seven such places there. When the Raines law went into effect, it was thought the minor hotels would be licensed on account of their places being within half a mile of State property. The County Treasurer says the men are not within restricted distance of the asylum, and that if their applications are regular he will give them their licenses.

Farmer Ebelz Held for Trial. Glen Cove, L. I., May 28.—Louis Ebelz, the German farm hand of Glen Head, who was arrested yesterday on a charge of attempting to shoot his employer, William Townsend, as well as Mrs. Ebelz, was held today by Judge Billings. It is said he is jealous of Townsend.

Brooklyn Can't Have the Water. Albany, May 28.—Governor Morton today announced the signing of Assemblyman Barry's bill allowing Suffolk County to prevent Brooklyn from getting any of its water supply in that county.

JAMAICA'S TRIBUTE TO ITS SOLDIER DEAD. Handsome Statue, Representing "Winged Victory," to Be Unveiled To-morrow.

A grand Military and Civic Parade Will Be Held in Honor of the Occasion.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO PARTICIPATE AND JOIN THE VETERANS IN SINGING SONGS OF THE CAMP AND THE BATTLEFIELD.

Jamaica, L. I., May 28.—A handsome monument to commemorate the brave deeds of the soldiers and sailors who gave their lives to preserve the Union will be unveiled at this place on Saturday. The monument stands at the intersection of Highland and Bergen avenues.

There will be impressive services in connection with the unveiling. The village will be handsomely decorated, and the veterans of the war will march through the streets carrying their tattered battle flags. William S. Cogswell will preside at the unveiling. The parade will be under the direction of Grand Marshal T. S. Rider.

The Fourth Regiment band will lead the procession, followed by 1,000 school children. The Seventeenth Separate Company, of Flushing, will march behind the Thirteenth Regiment band, and Grand Army posts from all over Queens County will be in line. The Second Zouaves and the veterans of the old Mozart Regiment, of New York City, are also expected. The Fire Department, civic societies and citizens will bring up the rear of the procession.

The statue will be unveiled at 3 p. m. The Rev. J. Howard Hobbs will offer prayer, and Master Floyd T. Raynor, son of a veteran, will unveil the monument, while a chorus of 100 voices will lead the veterans and school children in singing "America." Colonel John Fleming will deliver the oration, and the veterans will sing patriotic songs. Rev. M. J. Dennison is to deliver the benediction.

The women of Jamaica, under the leadership of Mrs. Florence Harris, will entertain the veterans at the Town Hall after the parade. They will establish a substantial commissary department. Headquarters will be at the Jamaica Club house, where there will be a reception in the evening.

The monument consists of a heavy foundation, four feet high, from which rises a ten-foot shaft of New Hampshire granite, on top of which rests the statue representing "Winged Victory."

The statue was designed by F. W. Ruckstul, secretary of the National Sculpture Society, and cast at the Henry Bonnard Bronze Works in New York.

"Victory" stands with wings outstretched, as if she had just alighted. In one hand she bears the palm of triumph. In the other the emblem of immortality. On the base are the figures "1861-1865." There is no other inscription.

The monument cost $10,000, all of which was raised by subscription. Ex-District Attorney John Fleming is credited with having started the movement for the statue. He is president of the Soldiers and Sailors' Association, of the Jamaica. The trustees are William S. Cogswell, Abram Van Vliet, Thomas S. Rider, John H. Surphen, Charles C. Napier, William F. Wyckoff, Michael J. Carter, John Adkes and J. Tyler Vant Alen. The site was donated by Henry A. Van Alen, Elbert Bruckerhoff and John Eldert.

HULSE MUST STAND TRIAL. He is Arrested in Philadelphia, Accused of Grand Larceny.

Riverhead, L. I., May 28.—Louis Y. Hulse, of Sayville, was brought here this afternoon by Deputy Sheriff John S. Wells. He was arrested in Philadelphia, an indictment having been found against him in that county in April, 1885, for grand larceny in the second degree, the complainant being the Westchester Fire Insurance Company. They proceeded against him both criminally and civilly.

Hulse was accompanied by his father and Israel Green, and they furnished bail. It is alleged that Hulse issued an insurance policy to Joseph Thurman, of Bohemia, after the company had forbidden him to do so; that he made a false return to the company; that he destroyed the property; and that the company was compelled to pay $600.

INSURANCE COMPANY SUED. Defendant Says Thomas D. Sherlock Swore Falsely as to Values.

Thomas D. Sherlock, a liquor dealer, of No. 123 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, began suit before Justice Osborne and a jury in Brooklyn yesterday to recover $4,854.84 from the German-American Fire Insurance Company, the amount alleged to be due as a result of a fire in Sherlock's store on September 12. The defendant alleges that the plaintiff swore falsely as to values, and charges him with aiding or abetting incendiarism.

Sherlock testified yesterday. He said the loss caused by the fire was $12,000, and he denied that he had anything to do with it.

Fire in a Penitentiary. There was a slight fire in the machine shop of the Kings County Penitentiary yesterday morning, caused by the friction of a belt against some workbench. Little damage was done and there was no excitement.

MORTON WILL REVIEW THEM. Governor Promises to Be Present at the Brooklyn Sunday School Parade.

Alfred Tilly, the marshal of the Brooklyn Sunday school children's parade, received the following letter from Governor Morton: Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., May 23, 1896.

I have deferred a decisive answer until this day for the reason that I was well aware that official duties would press closely upon me at or about the time of the parade. I have heard much in commendation of the very beautiful display the Brooklyn Sunday School Union makes annually upon these occasions, and I look forward to it with much interest. I hope for favorable weather and a large and representative assemblage of the children.

It is my intention to be at my hotel, No. 10 West Fourth street, New York City, on the morning of that day, subject to the wishes of the officials having the parade in charge. Very truly yours, LEVI P. MORTON.
