TWO STILL MISSING.

Jack Pritch is missing, as is another passenger whose name cannot be obtained. The accident occurred just as the boat about to make a landing near the dam and many persons in the grand stand witnesses of the dreadful catastrophe.

Thomas Sullivan worked away industriously at the bottom of an excavation ten feet deep in front of No. 8 Hubert street, until a big horse came tumbling down the hole yesterday afternoon. The animal fell on his back, and another horse just as big followed, landing on all fours on top of his companion.

The horses were attached to a wagon of the National Express Company, and were left in the stables in charge of William Lee. He turned them to the left instead of the right and they went down the hole, which was ten feet wide.

There was no policeman in sight, and Superintendent Lee, of the stables, said that he came for an hour and a half, or until the animals had been extricated.

It required a great deal of bravery on the part of those who were engaged in the rescue. Michael Osborn, Patrick Doyle and William Mann, hostlers in the stables, volunteered to go into the excavation and place slings under the animals. The horses became terrified, plunging and kicking, as the three men worked around them, sometimes standing on the under horse and at others clinging to ropes held by men above.

After one hour and forty minutes' dangerous work the horses were hauled out by means of a derrick furnished by James Hastings, foreman of a gang of Public Works Department employees who had left the excavation unguarded.

The horses were valued at $400, and Mr. Lee says that the extent of their injuries will be known for several days, and that they may both die.

ROSE EYTINGE'S RIVALRY. Kate Claxton, Whom She Sues, Alleges That She Was Jealous of Arthur H. Forrest's Admirers.

Kate Claxton, the actress, who has been sued by Rose Eytinge for $3,200 unpaid salary, claimed to be due her services while she was leading lady in the play entitled "Captain Swift," was called for examination in supplementary proceedings yesterday by Lawyer George R. Carrington in Part I. of the Supreme Court.

The examination was, however, cut short by the refusal of Eytinge to answer. Miss Fishel, representing Miss Claxton, to have reporters present.

Mr. Carrington would not agree to have the examination in supplementary proceedings in Part I. of the Supreme Court.

HORSES FALL INTO A PIT. DUNLOP IS WEAKENING.

Thomas Sullivan Was at the Bottom and He Narrowly Escaped Death—Three Brave Hostlers.

William Dunlop, the butler who stole Mrs. L. Townsend Burden's jewels, and who is said to have hid them in a ham, through the connivance of a pretty housemaid and escape with his accomplice, Under Butler Turner, is trying hard to escape the penalty for his crime.

Ever since he was brought back from England, Assistant District Attorney John D. Lindsay has been endeavoring to secure from Dunlop information as to the whereabouts of some of the jewels which were not recovered when Dunlop and Turner were arrested by the Scotland Yard detectives.

Dunlop showed a willingness to aid the State in the prosecution of Turner, who denied participation in the theft, but has persistently refused to disclose the means adopted by himself and confederate in getting the jewels out of the Burden household.

On three days of this week he has spent several hours in Mr. Lindsay's office in the Criminal Courts building, and has gone over in detail his actions and those of Turner from the day of the robbery to the day of their arrest. He has supplied information as to the jewels, which the detectives were very anxious to secure, and has placed upon Turner's shoulders the heaviest weight of responsibility for the crime.

Dunlop's reserve stock of courage has quite given out, and the District Attorney believes that he will complete his statement to-day, giving all the details that he has hitherto denied. He has tried to shield the housemaid, Ellen Stimquist, who is under indictment for aiding him, but is weakening in his resolve.

Mr. Lindsay would not tell what Dunlop has revealed, and District Attorney Fellows said:

"The statements Dunlop has made are important, but cannot be made public. The information is of great value in further proceedings."

NAVAL RESERVE FIELD DAY.

Second Division Beats the First at Creedmoor Range.

It was field day at Creedmoor for the Naval Reserve yesterday, and immediately after breakfast on the armory ship New Hampshire, seventy-one men of the First Division, under command of Lieutenant W. Forshaw, and seventy-eight men of the Second Division, Lieutenant E. C. Weeks in command, marched to Thirty-fourth Street and took a special train for the grounds.

The shooting began on the 100-yard range at 9 a. m. On the 200-yard range the officers and men made some excellent scores, in spite of the hazy weather. After dinner at Colonel Sully's clubhouse, shooting on the 300-yard range began. F. M. Dusenberry, of the Second Division, rolled up the top score, making 43 points. There is sharp competition between the divisions for possession of the State trophy, and also of the Duncan trophy.

The Second Division won the latter prize by a leg last year, and yesterday will go far toward giving them the State prize, for their percentage of merit, counting volley firing and attendance, was 85.50, as against 83.06 for the First Division. The latter's highest total scores were: Two men, 41 points each; one man, 40; one man, 39; and three men, 38. The Second Division had one man with 43, six men with 40, two with 39, and four with 38 points.

The result of the volley firing was:

Table with 4 columns: Division, No., Hits, Possible. Row 1: First, 93, 740, 800. Row 2: Second, 94, 740, 800.

MR. WYCKOFF IMPROVING.

His Wife Confident He Will Recover—Semi-ple's Body Taken to Chicago.

George H. Wyckoff, president of the Bank of New Amsterdam, continues to improve, and strong hope is now entertained of his ultimate recovery, although he is still very weak. Dr. Weir's operation was successful, and as no inflammation had set in at a late hour last evening, the danger point is believed to have been passed.

Mrs. Wyckoff, who has been with her husband ever since he was taken to the New York Hospital, is much cheered by the favorable turn her husband's condition has taken. She is now confident that he will recover.

The body of George H. Semple, who shot himself last week, was taken from his home, 412 West 10th street, and sent to Chicago, where it is being prepared for burial.

Mr. Semple and his wife were at home, and did not know of his shooting himself.

"BARONESS" BLANG AGAIN A BRIDE?

Said to Have Married Leeds Waters in Jersey City Last Saturday.

He Is Reputed to Be a Millionaire and Is Now Said to Be in Boston.

She Had Been Twice Wed and Was Separated from Both Husbands by Divorces.

HER CAREER IN TWO BIG CITIES.

Appeared Twice on the Stage and Failed Each Time—Now Says She Has Been Engaged by Sir Augustus Harris.

It was reported yesterday that the Baroness Blang was quietly married last Saturday to Mr. Leeds Waters in Jersey City. The only witnesses were the two daughters of the officiating clergyman.

The Baroness Blang has had a remarkable history and is well known to the New York public.

Elizabeth Lawrence Blang, former wife of "Baron" Frederick N. Blang, was first heard of in Philadelphia when she was still in her teens. Her maiden name was Nicholson, and her family was not prominent in the Quaker City. She was famous for her beauty.

In 1880 she married Alfred Lawrence Riegel, a prominent Philadelphian. A few months later her husband left her and she procured a divorce from him. Prior to this she appeared in a comic opera "The Mystic Isle." She then left Philadelphia, dividing her time between Long Branch and this city. She entertained lavishly in an uptown flat, among her guests being Mrs. Langtry, Fred Gebhard, Clarence Page and E. Berry Wall.

In July, 1887, she married Baron Frederick Blang, who was not a nobleman, Baron being his Christian name. Mrs. Blang, however, took the title of Baroness. They lived at the Gerlach, in Twenty-seventh street. The "Baron" soon afterward brought suit for divorce, naming "Ted Yungling, the lawyer, as respondent.

Two years ago Baroness Blang returned to the stage, appearing at the Fifth Avenue Theatre in a society play. She made an other failure. Three weeks ago she announced that she had complete arrangements with Sir Augustus Harris to appear in leading comedy roles in England.

Little is known of the reported bridegroom. He was a bachelor and lived at the Alpine, No. 55 West Thirty-third street. He is said to be a millionaire.

At the Alpine last night the clerk said Mr. Waters had gone to Boston and would not return for two weeks. He disclaimed any knowledge of the marriage.

MUST BUILD NEW "L" LINES

If the Manhattan Does Not Extend Its Roads to the Annexed Territory It Need Not Expect Concessions.

Russell Sage and George Gould and their counsel, Julia T. Davies, spent a disagreeable two hours with the Rapid Transit Commission yesterday. The Commissioners present were Mayor Strong, Alexander E. Orr, William Steinway, John Claflin and John H. Starin. They gave a public hearing first and then held an executive session, during which the Manhattan Rapid Transit plan for down town extensions under certain conditions, which they did not name. These conditions and the concessions the Manhattan people are willing to make in the way of building lines in the new territory will be embodied in a further application to the Commission. Mayor Strong did most of the fighting for the plan.

At the public hearing those who spoke were G. W. Vanness, Richard Alexander and Robert B. Saul. After the conference with the "L" road magnates the Commission voted to give $100,000 with which to pay $5,000 to each of the Commissioners, $2,000 to each member of the Supreme Court Commission, over which Frederick R. Woodruff presided, $1,325,000 as fees of counsel and the remainder to employes and for other expenses.

SEARCHING FOR WIMAN'S CASH.

He Owes Mr. Huber $1,000 and the Latter Wants an Assignment Set Aside.

Erastus Wiman appeared before Justice Smyth in Special Term, Part VI. of the Supreme Court yesterday, as defendant in Edward E. Huber's suit to set aside his general assignment to David Bennett King. The action was begun on a judgment for money loaned, obtained against Mr. Wiman by Edward E. Huber, and transferred to Mr. Huber. With the costs, it amounts to $1,000.

Though Thomsor & Allen, of No. 209 Broadway, his attorneys, Mr. Huber moved to set aside the assignment on the grounds that Mr. Wiman's interest in the business of R. G. Dun & Co. had not been inserted in the schedule of assets, nor had five acres of ground at Clifton, owned by Mr. Wiman, been included in the assignment. Mr. Wiman, receiver of the Electric Power Company, sixty-four of the 150 first mortgage $1,000 bonds of that corporation, under an agreement that they should be sold for four days.

Lawyer Henry Hoeljes and the half-dozen other attorneys went over the old ground, and when they had done so, they returned to the court. It appeared from the testimony that Mr. Wiman owed Mr. Dun about $25,000 when he left the firm, but that, nevertheless, he expected to draw $1,000 monthly from the house for the remainder of his life. Justice Smyth reserved decision until the second Monday of July to submit briefs.

TAILORS AGAIN TALK STRIKE.

To Hold a Meeting June 30 and Denounce the Tailors' Task Work.

The headquarters of the Brotherhood of Tailors, at No. 48 Orchard street, has been crowded every day with tailors who feel that a terrible struggle is impending to prevent the task work system from again gaining a foothold. A big mass-meeting of the finishers, who number nearly 2,000, has been called for in Wall-halla Hall on June 30, to decide whether they will strike against the general introduction of task work.

If they decide to strike it will mean that the operators, pressers, barbers and bushelers will join in the movement. This will be about 2,000 women and girls and will have together will involve 10,000 workers.

ARDSLEY CLUB "HANGS UP" INGERSOLL'S NAME.

His Views on Orthodoxy Were Distasteful to Some of This Swell Set.

His Check for $500 Returned, with Explanation That Did Not Explain.

"If They Are Christians," Says the Colonel, "They Did as One Would Have Expected."

NAME OF THE OBJECTOR KEPT DARK.

The Officers Refuse to Say Who It Was, but Lamentably Say the Matter Is Not Settled Yet.

Because of his religious views, the Ardsley Casino Club "hung up" the name of Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, who was proposed for membership.

"Hanging up" a name in club parlance does not mean "black balling." But there very few men are "black balled" in aristocratic clubs. The member who proposes and the member who seconds a candidate's name generally get a quiet "tip" from the Membership Committee or some member of the board of governors, that their candidate is going to be opposed, and so withdraw the name before it comes to a vote. This is "hanging up."

The Ardsley Casino is one of the most "swagger" clubs in the Summer resorts around New York. The magnificent club house is in a beautiful park of 200 acres overlooking the Hudson at Ardsley, midway between Dobbs Ferry and Irvington. The great park, shaded by thousands of giant trees, is enclosed by a high granite wall, and there is a stone lodge and a lodge keeper at the main gate. The membership includes that portion of New York's Four Hundred which reside along the Hudson, between Yonkers and Sing Sing in the Summer time.

The officers are: President, Philip Schuyler; vice-president, A. L. Barber; treasurer, Fred L. Eldridge; secretary, Cyrus Field Judson. Executive Committee—John D. Archibald, George H. Mairs, Dr. Roderick Terry, General Sam Thomas, Mr. C. C. Worthington and Senator Calvin S. Brice.

The officers refused to give the names of the men who had proposed Col. Ingersoll, or of those who had objected to his candidacy.

Col. Ingersoll was seen at his Summer home, near the village of Dobbs Ferry, yesterday afternoon.

"Were you one of the gentlemen who signed the original prospectus for the Casino?" he was asked.

Col. Ingersoll paused a moment and then replied: "Some time last year Mr. A. L. Barber asked me to sign a paper for the purpose of organizing a Casino club, and also asked me to subscribe for some of the stock. I subscribed for $1,000, payable when called for. Some months afterwards I received a notice asking me to pay one-half of my subscription. I sent a check for $500. Last winter I was away from home most of the time. In my absence the check was returned, with the statement that my name had been proposed for membership, but that there was no second. Afterwards I was informed that some action was taken by the governing committee, so that I did obtain a second, and so far as I know the matter rests there. I never asked to be a member, never asked anybody to propose my name and never said a word on the subject to anybody."

"I have also been informed that some of the committee objected to me on account of my views about orthodoxy. If it is true, I find no fault. These gentlemen, being Christians, have simply acted in accordance with their creed or ethics."

"I should have said nothing except for the reason that a reporter for the Journal on Wednesday showed me a statement purporting to have been made by a member of the club, and the statement was not true."

The statement referred to by Colonel Ingersoll was not made by a member of the club, but by the manager or chief accountant. It was to the effect that Colonel Ingersoll's name had been withdrawn simultaneously with the names of numerous other gentlemen because the Governing Board could not say when the clubhouse, which was greatly delayed in building, would be opened.

Mr. Judson, when asked about Colonel Ingersoll's rejection, said:

"The Colonel's name was proposed and then withdrawn, but I don't know why. Colonel Ingersoll's son-in-law, Mr. Watson Brown, was elected a member of the club a few weeks ago. I understood that he came in in the Colonel's place. The family is represented, anyhow."

"There was some feeling among certain members on account of the Colonel's religious views," said Mr. Barber, "and his name was temporarily withdrawn. I do not consider the matter as settled by any means."

WHITNEY IN CONTROL AS GENERAL-IN-CHIEF.

Administration Recognizes Him as Leader of Sound Money Forces.

Men Who Helped Him Make Cleveland President Rallying to His Standard.

Lamont Among the First to Call and the Others Will Come On at Once.

SILVER DEMOCRATS ALSO PLEASED.

But the Rumor That Vest Has Made a Deal is Denied—If Gold is Defeated at Chicago, What Then?

Except McKinley, ex-Secretary of the Navy William C. Whitney was the most talked of man yesterday by the citizens of New York. Even those who ought to know what is impossible in politics seem to believe that the ex-Secretary can perform political miracles; that he will give an example of his skill in Chicago by turning a free silver majority of the convention into a gold party, have himself nominated for President, and defeat William McKinley for election.

This was not only the talk among the crowds gathered around the bulletin boards, but it was heard in the clubs and hotel corridors. Besides this, the three great silver Democrats who expect to dominate the Chicago Convention—Senators Vest, of Missouri; Harris, of Tennessee, and Walthall, of Mississippi—who are in the city, sounded Mr. Whitney's praise in a way that verities ex-Speaker Crisp's recent remark that the ex-Secretary is Blaine's successor as the magnetic man of America.

Of course, these silver leaders said that the convention would declare for free coinage just the same as if Mr. Whitney had gone to Europe. Senator Vest expressed the opinions of himself and colleagues when he said: "I am sorry Whitney is going to Chicago, because a free coinage plank will be adopted just so surely as the convention assembles." So far as Whitney is personally concerned he is a prince of good fellows.

The silver leaders claim that they will have a two-thirds majority in the convention.

GENERAL IN COMMAND. As for Mr. Whitney himself he began active work yesterday morning as the general in command of the sound money forces. From now on until he leaves for Chicago his residence, at Fifty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, will be the scene of great political activity. Just as it was immediately previous to the Democratic National Convention of four years ago, Mr. Whitney said yesterday to all his newspaper cutlers that it might as well be their last visit to him, for until he arrives in Chicago he will not say a word for publication. "This was my rule four years ago, and I found it a good one," he added.

Mr. Whitney's first work was to summon his lieutenants who served him so faithfully at the last Chicago Convention, when he forced the nomination of President Cleveland. Some of them were not near enough to reach him yesterday, and those he communicated with by telegraph were long distance telephone. The first to arrive was Secretary of War Lamont, who remained with Mr. Whitney for some time. Colonel Lamont brought a message from President Cleveland. The Administration will recognize Mr. Whitney as the leader of the sound money campaign, and will use its influence as he directs. But politicians know that Mr. Whitney in this fight will not be under Administration influence. The Administration will be under him. The Administration will be under him.

Another old lieutenant who called was Carlos French, the Democratic leader of Connecticut, who gave assurances that his State delegation would obey Mr. Whitney's orders just as faithfully as they did four years ago. The first West was represented in the conference by Hugh C. Wallace, of the State of Washington. Mr. Wallace brought a message from President Cleveland. The Administration will recognize Mr. Whitney as the leader of the sound money campaign, and will use its influence as he directs. But politicians know that Mr. Whitney in this fight will not be under Administration influence. The Administration will be under him. The Administration will be under him.

In the evening Senator James Smith, the leader of the New York Democracy, and Senator Gorman, of Maryland, called. Bradley B. Small, of Vermont, and other Democratic and Republican leaders expected to report to-day. Whitney's headquarters for active duty, Chairman Harris will probably be here by Saturday.

When Mr. Whitney takes up his work on Monday he will have a thorough organization, extending to every State in the Union, and each man, down to the privates, will have a duty assigned to him. The first skirmish of the Whitney army will be for the gold standard. If defeated in that, the army will fall back on the lines suggested by the editorial in Thursday's Journal. Upon the principle that a crisis is better than a bread, anything short of a declaration for free coinage will be accepted.

Indeed it was rumored around the Manhattan and Democratic clubs and the Hoffman House that an agreement had been reached between Senator Gorman, the great conservative, and the leaders of the sound money men, and Senators Harris and Vest, on behalf of the silverites, that the principle should simply declare for the free use of silver, without naming the ratio, and that Mr. Whitney would be nominally nominated for President.

There is not a word of truth in the rumor. Senators Jones and Stewart, of Nevada, who were the first two Senators to bolt the Republican line, and who were in the city for silver, spent some time with Senators Vest and Harris last night, discussing the effects of the bolt of Senator Teller and his colleagues from the St. Louis Convention. They all said as many delegates bolted as they had expected. Stewart and Jones advocated the nomination of Teller by the Chicago Convention.

Colonel "Jim" Pepper, of Kentucky, was also at the principal House in charge of the "Joe" Blackburn Presidential boom. While the statesman agreed with Colonel Pepper that Blackburn's record was not so good as that of the Confederate record might injure him as a candidate, they thought.

KINSLEY MAGOUN HURT.

Polo Pony Kicks Him, but He is Expected to Recover—Another Accident.

At the Meadowbrook polo game to-day Kinsley Magoun was kicked in the stomach while changing ponies. He lay unconscious until stimulants were given, under the influence of which he was able to be assisted to the club house. He was in great pain for about a half hour, but before dark he recovered sufficiently to be taken home. The physician thinks the injury will not be fatal.

Later in the game Winthrop Rutherford rode to C. Paul Duval. The shock threw both men to the ground and broke Mr. Duval's pony's leg. It was his best pony. The men were unhurt, as the game was for a handsome silver cup presented by Mr. William Eustis. The first team won the cup.
