

ONLY A BABY GIRL LEFT IN THE HALL.

But She Caused a Good Deal of Excitement in a Brooklyn Bake Shop.

Three Young Men Who Know Little of Babies Wanted to Feed Her with Apples Pie.

HELD A NOTE IN HER TINY HAND.

It Told of a Homeless Mother and Asked That the Wee Foundling Be Christened Agnes Tighe by a Priest.

It did not matter much who else was excited; the baby certainly was not. She was a philosophical mite, and she lay on the hard floor as contentedly as if it was a bed of softest down.

At last the milk was all consumed, and the tidd dropped from the wee mouth. The street door opened, and Frank Brown, bearded and inexperienced in the matter of babies, hurried down the hall with a basket of bread on his arm.

FIRST EXPERIENCE WITH BABIES. Brown was on his knees at the infant's side, holding the little head on his arm.

"This didn't break its very small neck, if something isn't put here to prop it up," said he.

"Say, Lockwood, you're married. Why don't you do something?" said Stewart.

"I don't know exactly what to do," answered Stewart, who has not been married very long.

PREPARING FOR THE INFANT. She would have received the pastry had not there been a sudden interruption.

FIRED AT HIS DAUGHTER. George Albrecht Fired Two Shots at Her, but Neither Took Effect—To Be Examined as to His Sanity.

George Albrecht, forty-seven years old, of No. 65 Freeman street, Williamsburg, was remanded for trial by Police Justice Lennon yesterday on a charge of attempting to shoot his sixteen-year-old daughter, Lizzie, late Saturday night.

Albrecht returned home late, and after a quarrel with the young woman, fired two shots at her from a .32-calibre revolver. Neither shot took effect, both crashing through a looking glass in the room.

Before the crazed father could fire another shot he was disarmed by Acting Detective Bechtes, of the Greenpoint Avenue Station, who had been attracted to the apartments by the shots.

For some time Albrecht has acted as though he were insane, and imagined that his wife and daughter were concocting schemes to get rid of him.

Two weeks ago Albrecht went to the station house and demanded the revolver, which was given to the sergeant, and told him to keep it, as she feared her name would be killed by the press.

SET FIRE TO A TENEMENT. Twenty-five Lives Endangered by a Firebug's Act—Dominick Olcini Is Charged with the Crime.

A middle-aged man entered the three-story brick tenement house, No. 45 Front street, Brooklyn, early Saturday morning. Three families, numbering twenty-five persons, were asleep at the time.

The man had a bundle of paper and rags saturated with kerosene oil. He crept up to the third floor and dropped the rags and papers on the landing. Then he fired the inflammable stuff and started down the stairs.

The fire blazed quickly and sent a cloud of smoke through the hall window. Two men, Anthony Murello and Michael Gambino, who were sleeping there, awoke.

WILL CALL GLEASON TO TESTIFY FOR HIM. Shall Is Being Tried on Charges Preferred by Long Island City's Mayor.

They Are Trying to Oust Him from the Superintendentcy of the City's Schools.

WHAT IS BACK OF THE CHARGES? It is Alleged That the Gleason People Want to Shut Out of the Way, So That Some Thirty of the Old Teachers May Be Dropped.

The proceedings in the trial of School Superintendent John C. Shall, of Long Island City, against Mayor Gleason, promise to be decidedly interesting if the tactics of ex-Corporation Counsel William E. Stewart, who appeared for the accused superintendent at the trial, are as serious as those of Mayor Gleason.

The charges made by Mayor Gleason are general in their character and include many allegations of dereliction of duty, incompetency and usurpation of powers of the Board of Education, all of which are absolutely denied by Superintendent Shall.

As the five members of the Board of Education are appointed by the Mayor, and some of them have already, in advance, made it known that they intend to carry out Mayor Gleason's wishes, the matter of the removal of the accused superintendent is a foregone conclusion unless the points raised by his counsel, which may have to be passed upon by the courts before the trial is concluded, are sustained.

Superintendent Shall was appointed during the administration of Mayor Stewart, in 1888. His work was considered so satisfactory that an act of the Legislature was obtained by which his term of office was extended three years and an increase of salary provided for.

Shortly before Mayor Sanford went out of office last year, he reappointed some of the old Board of Education, and filled vacancies with new men, as provided by the city charter.

When Mayor Gleason took office he appointed five new Commissioners, but by advice of counsel, Superintendent Shall refused to recognize them, with the result that Mayor Gleason ordered the police to escort him from the rooms of the Board of Education, and took possession of the books and records of the department.

Superintendent Shall carried the matter to the courts and Justice Faynor granted a permanent injunction restraining Mayor Gleason or the police from interfering with him, while the case is pending.

It is alleged that the movement to remove Superintendent Shall at this time is due to a desire on the part of Mayor Gleason to have him out of the way when the examination of teachers takes place in August, and the fact is cited in corroboration of this allegation that an order has been issued, and only such teachers as were examined and appointed during Mayor Sanford's term are to be required to take the examination, and the further fact that members of the Board of Education have announced that they intend to drop such teachers as are to be dropped.

One of the duties of the superintendent is to examine the examination papers and to prepare them for submission to the State Regents. The continuation of Superintendent Shall in office would probably interfere with the carrying out of the above programme.

Yes, Corporation Counsel Stewart states that he shall insist upon Mayor Gleason, he being complainant, taking the witness stand, when a lively time may be expected.

LOOKING FOR MR. ELLIOTT. Mrs. Davies Says He Stole Clothing and Jewelry Valued at $125.

A well-dressed and glib-tongued young man called at Mrs. J. W. Davies' residence, No. 121 Pierrepont street, Brooklyn, last Wednesday. He had an air of transience and importance and talked as if he owned half the city.

Mrs. Davies was afraid he wanted to buy the house, but he eventually eased her mind by telling her he wished to hire a furnished room. He said he was Mr. Elliott, and he moved in a few hours later.

Mrs. Elliott left Saturday morning for New York and has not returned. Mrs. Davies yesterday noticed that clothing and jewelry worth $125 had been stolen from the house.

DENIES THE WOMAN'S STORY. Silver Brands as False the Charge That He Shot at Mrs. Ratkins.

William Silver, thirty-two years old, of Irvington avenue, New Utrecht, was arrested on a charge of intoxication on Saturday by Policeman Altou. Before he was locked up, Mrs. Katie Ratkins appeared and made a serious charge against him.

She said she was in her yard shortly before Silver was arrested. He raised an old revolutionary blunderbuss, musket and fired at her. Silver said the woman must be mistaken, as he never handled a musket in his life.
