

If You Find Your Life Needs Spicing,
Here Are the Pepper Pots

Marguerite Namara, though surrounded by the chorus, is "Alone At Last."
Photo by F. S. Hastings.

The Ziegfeld "Midnight Frolic" needs no "pep," but the Dolly Sisters do certainly add a dash of Cayenne. Photo by White.

Jeanne Eagels, in Hubert Henry Daire's play, "Outcast," new to Broadway

Joseph Cawthorn and Maisie Gay consulting the "Sybil" at the "Liberty."
Photo by White.

Despite the weather report, it's still "Fair and Warmer," at the Eltinge.
Photo by White.

Otis Skinner in "Cock o' the Walk," at the Cohan Theatre.
Photo by White.

No, they will not fall off. William Norris will not die a lingerieing death. He will continue going "Around the Map."
Photo by White.