

The French Poilu as Seen by the Official Army Photographers.

French troops camping at Clermont, in the Argonne.

Exclusive photograph taken by official photographers of the French Army and published by special arrangement with the Minister of War.

German prisoners captured in the operations around Verdun.

Exclusive photograph taken by official photographers of the French Army, and published by special arrangement with the Minister of War.

Serving hot soup in the trenches "somewhere on the French front."

A Japanese pathologist at work in the Hotel Astoria, Paris, where the Japanese maintain an ambulance service for their ally.

Senator Charles Humbert examining ammunition held in reserve for defence of Verdun.

Exclusive photograph taken by official photographers of the French Army and published by special arrangement with the Minister of War.

The race course near Verdun, now used by French engineers for military purposes.

Exclusive photograph taken by official photographers of the French Army and published by special arrangement with the Minister of War.