

"The army fights on its stomach." A part of the British field bakery at Salonika. Photo from Janet M. Cummings.

The roads leading to Verdun are filled these days with reserves ready to be rushed to the support of the front line trenches. Photo by Paul Thompson.

In the Camps of the Allies

LEND YOUR FIVE SHILLINGS
TO YOUR COUNTRY AND

CRUSH THE GERMANS

A new safety helmet used by sailors on British submarines. Press Illustrating Co.

TURN YOUR SILVER INTO BULLETS

AT THE POST OFFICE

One of the posters used to induce Englishmen to invest in war loans. Photo from Janet M. Cummings.

The Council Table of the Allies during the recent Paris Conference. Starting on the extreme left and moving to the right around the table: Premier Asquith of England, Lord Bertie, Sir Edward Grey, David Lloyd George, one of the secretaries, Lord Kitchener, an English military aide, Sir William Robertson, Premier of Italy Salandra, Ambassador Tittoni, Baron Sonnino, General Cadorna, an Italian Secretary, Mr. Matsui, General Chagas, M. Isvolsky, General Gillinski, Premier Patchitch, General Vesnitch, General Yovanevitch, General Rochitch, General De Castlenau, General Joffre, another French Secretary, Premier Briand, General Roques (standing) and General Bourgeois.

© Underwood and Underwood. Official French War Office Photograph.

These posters to induce investment in British war loans are posted throughout the United Kingdom. Photo from Janet M. Cummings.