

The Community Dining Room.

Beachwood's New Station.

What the Camera Tells of Improvements at Beachwood, The Tribune's Land Project.

This is the camera's story of Beachwood, N. J., opened to new readers of The Tribune a year ago—to-day a community of homes. Investigators from Hearst newspapers, which have suffered from the flood of light Samuel Hopkins Adams has thrown upon their advertising methods, recently professed inability to find the yacht club. Not only has the camera found it, but also the community dining room, clubhouse, bathing houses, new railroad station and other improvements installed by The Tribune that are being enjoyed by purchasers of lots there. Practically all of the lots have been sold, at a flat rate of $19.60 and a subscription to The Tribune, as a means of stimulating circulation. Two hundred homes have been erected on the Beachwood lots and many more are in the course of construction. Details of the work at Beachwood may be found in the news columns of The Tribune this morning.

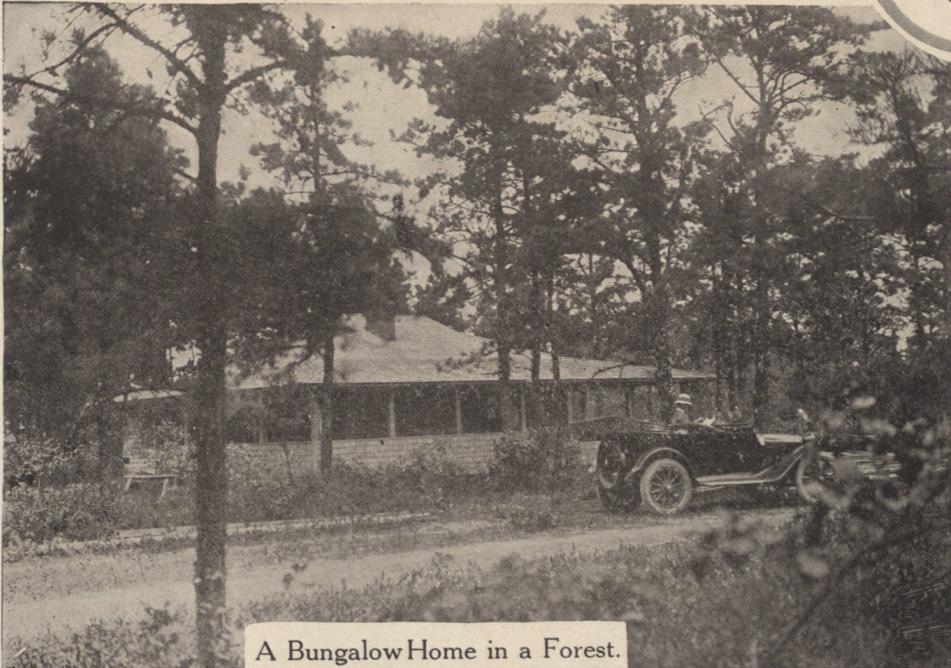

Shore View of the Yacht Club.

Shady Nooks Put New Joy in Beach Pastimes.

The Bathers' Paradise—Where Trees and Water Meet.

A Bungalow Home in a Forest.

One of the 200 New Homes.