

Smith College Seniors singing the Ivy Song in front of the library, with Juniors carrying the Ivy Chain. Smith College, exclusively for women, has 1,725 students.

The Seniors of Smith College in Cap and Gown on the Campus.—Smith College is situated at Northampton, Mass., and has 6,279 alumni.

Photo by Katherine E. McClellan.

© Underwood & Underwood.

The Statue unveiled at Pennington School, Pennington, N. J., in memory of the students who left the school in 1861 in response to President Lincoln's appeal for volunteers. Louis Keila, of New York, sculptor.

The Senior Class of Pennington School. The following shared in the Commencement exercises: Herbert W. Wilks, Harry N. Stark, Donald Stuart, Edward St. John, John Phelps, William Phelps, Frank MacKenzie, William D. Mishkind, Ralph Lewis, David Byrne, Rollin Keyes, Frank Hamilton, John M. Grierson, William Garrison, Ernesto Cubillos, Glenn H. Cox, Frank Cooper, Ignatius Celona, Sheldon Belcher, John Albertson.

Mount Holyoke College Commencement Procession.—First, Chief Marshal Miss Eleanor C. Doak, Professor of Mathematics; following, the Senior Class, led by the Class President, Evelyn Davis and Vice-President Dorothy Towle. At the left of the second couple is Yom Tsit Lan of Canton, China.

Photo by Thomas C. Hawks.

The Alumni Lawn Fete at Colgate University. Co-located at Hamilton, New York. Included in the university is the Theological Seminary. It has a total of 600 students and 3,000 alumni.

Representatives of the alumni and their costumes at Smith College Commencement reunion. Smith College was founded by Miss Sophia Smith, of Hatfield, who bequeathed $365,000 to the college. It was named for her.

Photo by Katherine E. McClellan.

The Alumni Parade at St. Lawrence. Leading, Herbert F. Gunnison, '80, of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle; second rank, Irving Bacheller, '82, and his son.

The Senior Procession at Mount Holyoke College. In 1916 Mount Holyoke College, situated at South Hadley, Mass., had 791 students. Its alumni number 11,079. In 1912 a $500,000 endowment fund was raised.

Colgate's graduating class heading the Commencement procession.

