

Ready for the Gas Attack—Trench warriors are provided with the regulation paper bag mask.

Officers Watching the ebb and flow of battle from the safe distance officers are popularly supposed to be entitled to.

WAR IN THE BACK LOTS
The battle of Sandy Hill, where No Man's Land is bordered with asphalt.

Central News Photo Service

The Break in Diplomatic Relations—One "diplomat" defies the other to knock the chip off his shoulder.

The Gas Attack—Sand answers the purpose of poison gas, and often produces satisfactorily similar results.

In the Field Hospital—"Red Cross" nurses tenderly minister to the wounded and fatigued.

The Bivouac After Battle—Tactical mistakes are discussed and plans laid for the next offensive.

Throwing Hand Grenades—These may be sand filled tin cans or they may be overripe tomatoes.