AMONG US MORTALS

DRAWN By W. E. HILL

THE AMATEUR VAUDEVILLE

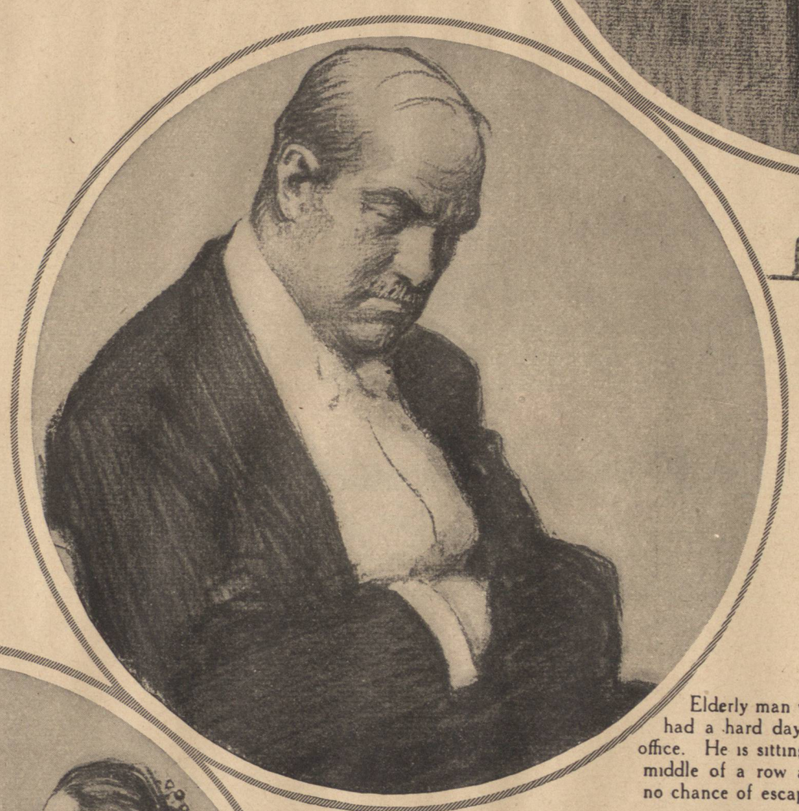
The little stage set up at one end of the hotel ballroom, showing the members of the chorus, who have rehearsed now and then for eight weeks, but in an armory, and never at the same time.

The imitation of Harry Lauder by the man who never has seen him, but knows how his stuff ought to go.

Programme girl, who has more paint on than the entire chorus of the show.

Amateur chorus lady who has just told the make-up man to fix her up like Mary Pickford — and expects him to do it.

Marie Louise, who wore her bridesmaid dress for the fashion number, sees four more of them in the audience.



Elderly man who has had a hard day at the office. He is sitting in the middle of a row and sees no chance of escape.

Very much flustered amateur cartoonist, who has used up ten of the allotted twelve minutes and is still rubbing out lines and putting them in again.

Pete, the electrician, having a little argument with the girl who doesn't see why the calcium can't be brought right down in the wings during her song.

Reggie has consumed an hour in trying to make himself resemble a collar ad.

Toe dancer, who comes down hard, like a ton of bricks, causing the temporary stage to all but collapse.
