

E. E. Smith, of Rhinelander, Wis., the bayonet expert, demonstrates new methods of bayonet fighting at the Officers' Reserve Camp at Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

Photo © International Film Service.

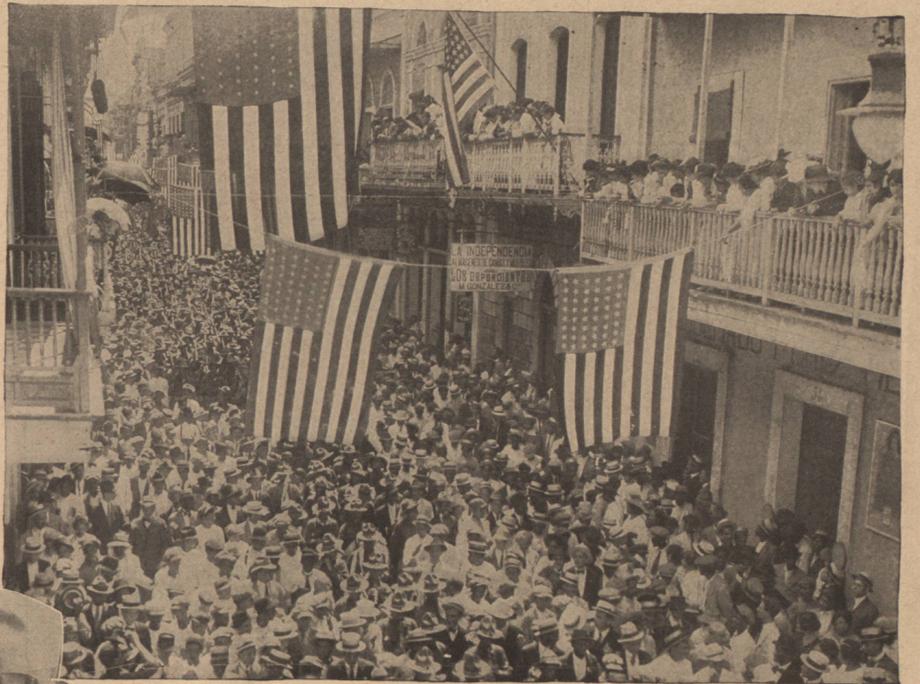

King George (1) and Queen Mary (2) while on a tour through the hospitals and munitions factories of Britain pay a visit to the convalescent Tommies at a sanatorium near Lancaster.

Photo Central News Service.

Apparently the only troubles experienced last Tuesday by the clerks in registering the male residents of New York's Chinatown within the conscription age were those of "readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic"

© Underwood & Underwood

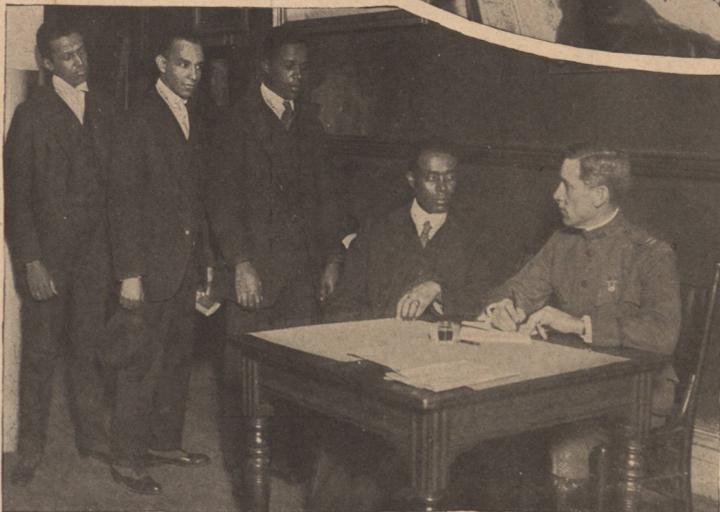

San Juan, Porto Rico, bids farewell to its troops with a gala fete, as they leave to guard the Panama Canal. The Porto Rican troops replace regulars which have been withdrawn for service, possibly with Pershing.

Photo © Underwood & Underwood.

Mr. Charles Jones, president of the National Carrier Pigeon Association, shows how pigeons can be used for carrying army messages, which are placed in a metal cup on the right leg of the bird.

Photo Central News Service.

A. Merrill Willis (sitting) is the first negro to enlist for the newly established Officers' Training Camp for colored officers, at Fort Des Moines, Ia. Captain W. M. Haskell is shown enrolling men at the colored Y. M. C. A.

Photo Paul Thompson.

Benny Leonard, New York's first champion in years, photographed with his mother just after he won the lightweight title in nine rounds with Freddie Welsh.

Photo Kadel & Herbert.

Athletes representing the Philippines entering the Oriental Olympic Meet Grounds under the American colors. To the right is the banner of the Chinese delegation to the outdoor festival, recently held in Japan.

Photo Paul Thompson.