

Miss Alva Root, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Root of New York, unconditionally surrenders on the Southampton Beach. American Press.

SOCIETY'S KIDDIES
AREN'T WORRYING ABOUT
EITHER OLD SOL OR MARS
THESE SUMMER DAYS

Above to the right—Master Gifford, Jr., Miss Jean and Master Drayton Cochran, children of Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Cochran of New York, at Newport. Underwood & Underwood.

Little Miss Kellogg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Kellogg, on the beach at Southampton, L. I. American Press.

On the Scarborough Beach at Narragansett Pier, from left to right—Master C. Rathborne, son of Mrs. J. C. Rathborne of New Orleans; Master John R. Fell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fell of New York; Master Benjamin Chew and Miss Anna S. P. Chew, children of Mr. and Mrs. B. Chew of Philadelphia; Miss Dorothy R. Fell, Master Samuel Chew, and Baby Patsy Rathborne. Underwood & Underwood.

On the left—Miss Cynna Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. B. Pratt of New York, does her bit by selling balloons at the Red Cross Garden Fete held on the estate of Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James at Newport. Underwood & Underwood.

On the left—Misses Francis and Margaret Preston, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Veryl Preston of New York, with their prize Sealingham terrier. The trio are summering at Southampton, L. I. American Press.

On the left—Master Coleman Carnegie Perkins, son of F. C. Perkins and grandnephew of Andrew Carnegie, and Miss Audrey Davies, daughter of Mr. Frederick M. Davies of New York, on Southampton's sands. American Press.

Below—Little Mortimer Rutherford enjoys the "big push" on his father's (Mr. Jack Rutherford) home, "Clover Top," Southampton, L. I. American Press.

