

War economy in official life. Mrs. Robert L. Lansing serves a meal composed entirely of dried food. Left to right: Mrs. Redfield, wife of the Secretary of Commerce; Mrs. Hugh L. Scott, wife of the Chief of Staff, U. S. A.; Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the Speaker; Mrs. Robert L. Lansing, wife of the Secretary of State; Mrs. Ailee Pomerene, wife of Senator Pomerene; and Mrs. Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the Navy.
International Film Service.

Miss Helen Taft, the new dean of Bryn Mawr College, stringing beans for canning at the Kermette Colony, West Chester, Pa.
American Press Association.

Miss Mary Browne, of California, virtually the new tennis champion, having recently defeated Miss Bjurstedt six consecutive times.
International Film Service.

Above, left to right: Marquis Nebeshimii, Countess Ogassawara and Mrs. Inongl, wife of the Governor of Tokyo-fu, at the hospital of the Japanese Red Cross.
Bain News.

Right: These English girls are plucky. Miss Hamilton (seated) and Miss Cullin, both in active service with the British Ambulance Corps on the French front.
Underwood & Underwood.

Miss Fannie Boturok inspecting cartridges for the Lewis machine gun. One of the first official photographs from the Winchester Arms Company plant.
American Press Association.

Stage women give time and service for the soldiers. Valerie Bergere and Madge Kennedy, knitting; Emily Randolph, standing. Sitting, Violet Heming, Mrs. Tracy and Amelia Bingham.
American Press.

Above: Mrs. Gordon Grant, wife of the artist, cutting a gross of soldiers' kit bags at a time on this machine at Red Cross headquarters.
American Press Association.

Above: Miss Markland, the only woman surgeon in the British army. We'd like to be unique, but we don't envy Miss Markland.
Underwood & Underwood.

Left: Mrs. Edward Humphrey and Mrs. George Church, of Pittsfield, Mass., still at work for the Red Cross. They started their service during the Civil War.
Photo Nelson Edwards, Tribune Service.

Right: Miss Madge Titheridge is a cheerful visitor to the blind "Tommys" at St. Dunstan's, London. She is greatly interested in their work and frequently entertains them.
Pictorial Press.

