

AMONG US
MORTALS
—
DRILLING
THE
HOME
GUARD

DRAWN BY
W. E. HILL

"Form fours!"
Somebody has missed out on the number four.

The lady who hasn't touched her knitting for the past four days
working overtime
in public.

Mrs. Gobe has inside dope on the war from her gardener—a German,
but very pro-Ally—who knows for a certainty that Japan is going to declare war with the United States in three months. The Misses Jones, who had heard on good authority that the war would be over within two months, are very much upset by the news.

Wild applause
from the side
lines when brother Rodney marches
past.

I do hope Fred won't hurt himself with that gun
—he isn't used to firearms!"

"You're an awful fool to let that officer speak to you like that! Call him down once or twice, and he'll respect you much more in the end."

Ed, home from the officers' training camp, looking things over, while Sister Edna takes a few snapshots.

Dr. Haddock has not yet been supplied with a uniform, but makes a brave showing with the materials at hand.