

Right—American League champions—the "White Sox," of Chicago give a splendid demonstration of close order drill as they march across the diamond on their home grounds.

Associated Newspapers.

A crippled British Tommy demonstrates his new and easy belt crutch by taking a few pegs at the Kaiser's effigy. These adjustable crutches are very comfortable and allow perfect freedom of the arms.

Int. Film.

Left—An ordeal that the average soldier fears more than a high explosive shell. Having a tooth pulled at the open air dentist's office in one of our training camps.

Underwood & Underwood.

Our commander in chief in France—General Pershing watching the flight of American aviators at a French training camp.

Kadel & Herbert.

Left—Over 3,000 wounded Russian soldiers en-training for transportation to their convalescent camps back of the fighting lines.

Central News.

Thousands of deluded Germans met the same tragic death as this poor Boche in the recent French offensive about Verdun.

Underwood & Underwood.

Left—Hardening the nerves of United States soldiers with fake bombs is one of the popular training stunts at a nearby camp. The bombs are harmless, but make a terrific report and throw out vast volumes of smoke.

Kadel & Herbert.

Right—A fox terrier, the mascot of a British regiment, on guard beside Tommy's grave that is marked by an unexploded German shell.

Int. Film.

