

On the left—10,000 persons at a mass meeting at City Hall last Monday noon cheered "Fighting Mayor Mitchell" as he threw his gauntlet into the faces of "Hearst, Hylan and the Hohenzollerns" in his first fiery campaign speech. Charles E. Hughes and Colonel Roosevelt were among the speakers. Paul Thompson.

Church service aboard the U. S. S. Newport, New York State's nautical school for cadets training to be officers in the United States Merchant Marine. The schoolship has just returned from three months' cruise and is at anchor in the Hudson River. Int. Film Co.
On the right—A recent scene on the Russian front. Loyal Russian troops doing their best to prevent the retreat of deserters. On the right is Captain Gerrard, of the Russian army, who is attached to the British armored cars as interpreter. Endicott & Underwood.
