

Lieutenant George Flaschire, French aviator, who has been giving Washington some thrills—thrills that are part of the daily routine at the front. © R. Reid.

Austrian prisoners marching through an Italian village which has been wrecked by their artillery. © Williams Service.

Even those blinded by war in Germany must work. Sightless soldiers being led into the fields for their day's labor. © Central News.

The people of Rome, by popular subscription, buy big guns and present them to the famous battery "Cesare Battiste." © Williams Service.

Italian women digging trenches behind the Italian front. © Kadel & Herbert.