

An Italian boat of 12,000 tons recently torpedoed off the Spanish coast by a German submarine. The boat is seen settling down with a heavy list. © International Film

Many pictures of shelled churches in which the statues of Christ have been miraculously spared from the general destruction have come to this country since the beginning of the war. The Christ of this church in the Department of the Aisne, near Soissons, was not one of those thus spared. © Paul Thompson

The Polish Legion in France starting for the front.

© Underwood & Underwood.