Part Seven
New York Tribune

Tribune Graphic

Sunday
June 23, 1918

Belgian cavalry passing through a French town on the way to the front.
Kadel & Herbert.

A giant Handley-Page night-bombing machine about to leave a British field on the Aisne front. It is this monster type that we are building in this country, and for which the Liberty motor is especially suited.
Western Newspaper Union.