

Columbia Grafonola

Songs Across the Sea

Singing, they marched and fought for freedom over there—thousands on thousands of America's best and dearest. And to war-worn Europe the tread of their marching feet and the sturdy lilt of their brave young voices sounded the music of liberty.

Day and night the selfsame music echoed over here. In thousands on thousands of loyal American homes, these inspiring, patriotic melodies on the Columbia Grafonola cheered and sustained the patriotic men and women who work and wait and save and serve. This was Columbia's war-time task.
