HOTEL BELLECLAIRE
NEW YORK

Subway at 79th St.

Only a few minutes from the Shopping and Theatrical District.

It is fitting that Christmas comes on Wednesday—the middle of the week. It gives those of us who haven't prepared for the event as we should another two days to get ready for it. This year we must not forget anybody or anything. If we do we haven't absorbed the spirit of the times.

All must be peace and good will.

We are going through our larder a little more carefully this year than ever before. There must not be missing a single thing. Our chef and cooks and waiters are all keyed up to make this a great Christmas for Belleclaire guests. If they overlook any dish that will contribute to the happiness of guests, it won't be their fault or mine. They have free rein to prepare and serve all of the dainties they wish.

The Belleclaire, being a home hotel, and arranged in many respects just like a private home, will take on the Christmas atmosphere that pervades the average private home. Every guest will know that it is Christmas morning when he wakes up on Wednesday

And those strangers within our gates, deprived of the pleasure of being in their own homes, will be doubly welcome. They shall have meals just as though they were in their own homes—the dishes that appeal to everybody who cherishes memories of mother and the old home.
