

King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium making their triumphant entry into the city of Liège. Both are here seen on horseback, riding side by side, in the centre of the picture. © Underwood & Underwood.

Prince Wilhelm, eldest son of the ex-Crown Prince of Germany, is thirteen years old, and legally, at this very moment, the King of Prussia. His age makes it impossible for him to abdicate. Another unhappy child of royalty! © Press Illustrating Service.

Baron Nobuaki Makino, head of the Japanese peace delegation, bound for Versailles and the forthcoming conference. © Kadel & Herbert.

Lindley M. Garrison, in whose hands, as receiver, has been placed the bankrupt Brooklyn Rapid Transit. © G. V. Buck, from Underwood & Underwood.

Here we see the watchfire of the militants in front of the White House. Ushering in the new year by burning all of President Wilson's European speeches in which he refers to democracy. © Harris & Ewing, from Paul Thompson.

Theodore P. Shonts, Editor of "The Subway Sun," who wants us to pay eight cents instead of five.

Not the trenches, though the sensation must have been reminiscent. This is the beach on Fire Island, where survivors from the ill-fated Northern Pacific were cheered with hot coffee and sandwiches. Tribune Graphic Service.