

"There are blessed intervals when I forget, by one means or another, that I am the President of the United States. One means by which I forget is to get a rattling good detective story, get after some imaginary offender and chase him all over."—WOODROW WILSON.

"I did a whole lot of reading. I particularly enjoyed half a dozen rattling good detective stories by Arthur B. Reeve—some of them were corkers."—THEODORE ROOSEVELT

The American Conan Doyle

ARTHUR B. REEVE (CRAIG KENNEDY) The American Sherlock Holmes

He is the genius of our age. He has taken science—science that stands for this age—and allied it to the mystery and romance of detective fiction. Even to the smallest detail, every bit of the plot is worked out scientifically.

For nearly ten years America has been watching this Craig Kennedy—marveling at the strange, new, startling things that detective-hero would unfold. Even under the stress of war England read him as she never did before.

Such plots—such suspense—with real vivid people moving through the maelstrom of life! Frenchmen have mastered the art of terror stories. English writers have thrilled whole nations by their artful heroes. But—all these seem old-fashioned—out-of-date—beside the infinite variety—the weird excitement of Arthur B. Reeve's tales.

LET CRAIG KENNEDY SOLVE THE MYSTERY!
"Hello, Chief!—Haven't found the frebug yet, have you? You will know who he is only when I am dead and the fire stop." It was a mystery that needed the master mind of Craig Kennedy, the scientific detective of this day. Craig Kennedy, who came to life in the mind of Arthur B. Reeve.

"NAVY'S MOST VITAL SECRET STOLEN"
What did it mean? Were those plans really stolen? Only two people were near the draughting room the night of the theft—a man and a woman—both well known in Washington society. But Craig Kennedy solved the mystery.

THE DEMON IN THE SKY
High in the air—cut loose from all the world—what was the unseen hand that gripped each machine, that hurled it down to death? Craig Kennedy solved this mystery.

THE POISONED PEN
A beautiful woman found dead in her own room! A woman with intense personal charm and brilliant future—with friends at every turn—Who could have killed her and why? With unrelenting energy Craig Kennedy tracked down the murderer.

"LOOK! SHE'S AFIRE! HER LIPS SHINE!"
She moaned, as she tossed about on her hospital bed. The doctor knew that this little unimaginative girl was trying to tell some awful truth—what was that truth? Only Craig Kennedy could fathom it!

COBRA VENOM AND DREAMS
An odd mixture! The one blended in with the other wove a strange story around Mrs. Maitland! Her innermost soul was dragged out into the rude and pitiless daylight and a love was unmasked before the world! Such power had Craig Kennedy.

THE WISDOM OF THE SAGES became as water before the never-fatal knowledge of Craig Kennedy. The Pandit, the Guru, and the Swami—all vared in the deepest lore of the East, were swept aside as frauds and fakirs in this desperate search for the man who killed Georgette Gilbert.

THE BLACKMAILER
The letter was most artistically worded—certainly were it to fall into her husband's hands he would have grounds for suspicion of her—yet she had not even been indiscreet. What should she do? Arthur B. Reeve, through his wonderful knowledge solves her difficulty for her.
