ALBODON

"First Aid" in Sensitive Teeth and Bleeding Gums

THERE are times when the dentine of one or several teeth suddenly becomes sensitive and painful. The gums bleed and become soft. It may be temporary, but the advice of a dentist should be sought at once.

In the meantime, and as a "first aid," discontinue the toothbrush and use ALBODON on the finger. This will clean the teeth and massage the gums in a gentle way. When the sensitiveness or bleeding has stopped, resume the toothbrush.

Our soldiers and sailors, whose fine, white teeth were so much admired abroad, are returning in numbers with myalgia and trench fever. The teeth are loose, the gums spongy and bleeding.

Many dentists are advising them to use ALBODON DENTAL CREAM as a massage with the finger. It is especially important the last thing at night. Do not immediately afterward rinse the mouth. In that way the cream will stay on the teeth and gums and act as a soothing and stimulating covering during sleep.

All dentists know the exact formula and have no hesitation in recommending the use of ALBODON.

BRUSH YOUR TEETH RIGHT Most gum trouble is due to brushing the teeth the wrong way. Around every tube of Albodon that you buy is wrapped a booklet, written by a well-known dentist, explaining the right way and giving other valuable advice.

SEND FOR TRIAL TUBE For 5c in coin or stamps we will send you a trial size tube of ALBODON DENTAL CREAM sufficient to last one person a week, so that all the family may have a chance to prove its merits to their personal satisfaction.
