

CHAMPIONS ALL

John Glan's Brushwood Boy, proudly unconscious, as a well-bred shepherd should be, of his recent show honors.

The fine head of Mrs. H. S. Phipps's blue ribbon beagle, Wheatley Trinket.

'Pointing' the way to $40,000 earned for her master, William Ziegler, jr., during one year on the field is the proud record of Mary Montrose, best of her breed.

Gailaich Gip, owned by D. Y. Hughes, of Detroit, best female wirehaired terrier.

The best Pom in the Westminster Show—Pall Mall Wee Goldspeck.

Beautiful Lansdowne Sunflower, never-defeated greyhound, stands supreme in his class. Owned by Mrs. B. F. Lewis, of Lansdowne, Penn.

Rattler King II, J. C. Feder's champion—a real Boston terrier.

From Hemlock Hill Kennels, Brookline, hails this Sealyham blue-ribbon winner, Brockhold Dazzler.

King of the Root—owned by Mr. J. Drew, of Mount Vernon.

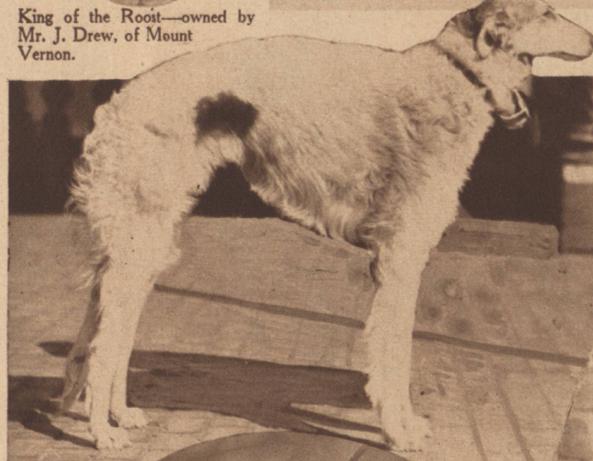

Mrs. G. Snow's Phantom of Ashcraft—the country's greatest Pekingese.

Pride's Hill Tweak-em, wire-haired fox terrier, owned by G. A. Shaw McKean.

Alfire Supreme, Admiral Spencer Eddy's champion white bull terrier.

Left—Nothing Bolshevik about this aristocratic Russian wolfhound, Ostrand o' Valley Farm.

Looking out with tolerant Oriental wisdom from a magnificent coat is Yreey, greatest living Chow, belonging to Mrs. Nyhart, of Massachusetts.

Right—Finest of cocker spaniels in this country is Champion Brookside Aristocrat.

Left—Bright Beauty, owned by G. S. Davis, of St. Louis, carried off honors for the Irish terriers at the Westminster Show.

Right—French to her aristocratic toenails and perfect of her kind is this French bull terrier, La Reine d'Anjou, belonging to Mr. H. Jackson, of Chicago.