

"THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME"

A Paramount-Artcraft Special Photoplay

from Hall Caine's Sensational Novel Directed by Hugh Ford

1 "Thus in my youth, my helplessness, my ignorance and my inexperience I was married to the man who had been found and courted for me. Love had not spoken to me, sex was still asleep in me, and my marriage was arranged before my deeper nature knew what was being done."
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."

2 "I thought I could feel the atmosphere of other women about him—loose women, bad women as it seemed to me—and my fear and disgust began to be mixed with a kind of physical horror."
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."

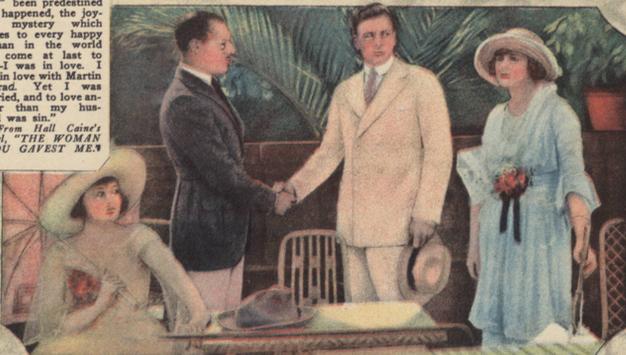

3 "I found myself listening to the voices which I could distinctly hear. There were two voices, one a man's, loud and reckless, the other a woman's, soft and cautious. There was no need to tell myself whose voices they were."
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."

5 "Mary—Mary—I—I love you."
"I could hear no more. I could not think or pray or resist any longer. The bitter struggle was at an end. Before I knew what I was doing I was dropping my head on his breast and he with a cry of joy was gathering me in his arms."
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."

4 "I knew that what had long been predestined had happened, the joyous mystery which comes to every happy woman in the world had come at last to me—I was in love. I was in love with Martin Conrad. Yet I was married, and to love another than my husband was sin."
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."

8 "He was coming back to me—this husband of mine—and when he came the law would require that I should keep 'true faith' with him, whatever his conduct, and deny myself the pure love that was now awake within me."
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."

9 "And then came the great miracle. My child awoke and began to cry. It was a faint cry, oh! so thin and weak, but it went thundering and thundering through me. A mighty torrent of love swept over me. . . . It was motherhood."
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."

10 "She has defied me and ruined me, and made me the byword of the island, God's curse on her—"
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."

7 "Oh, you good women, who are happy in the love that guards you, shields you, shelters you, wraps you round and keeps you pure and true—tread lightly over the prostrate soul of your sister in her hour of trial and fierce temptation."
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."

11 "Seizing him by the white stock at his throat, I thrashed him as I should have thrashed a vicious ape. I thrashed him while he fumed and foamed, and cursed and swore. I thrashed him while he cried for help—and then yelled with pain and whined for mercy—and then flung him to the ground, bruised in every bone."
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."

6 "I told her that I had fled from my husband's house because I could not bear to remain there any longer."
"I told her that my father had married me off against my will, in spite of my protests, when I was a child, and did not know that I had any right to resist him . . . that he had sacrificed my happiness to his lust of power."
"I told her that my husband did not love me, and that he had married me from the basest motives, merely to pay his debts and secure an income."
"I told her, too, that not only did my husband not love me, but he loved somebody else, and that he had been cruel and brutal to me."
"I told her that if I had fled from my husband's house it was not merely because he had been cruel and brutal to me, but because I, too, loved somebody else."
—From Hall Caine's Novel, "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME."
