

Three of the ten generals who returned home on the Aquitania last week. Major General George O. Squire, Lieutenant General Hunter Liggett, "Hero of the Second Marne," and Major General M. M. Patrick. On the left General Liggett democratically poses for the camera with a group of his cheering doughboys, while on the right Brigadier General Jos. C. Castner is shown in the midst of a group of his fighting men. General Liggett has been assigned to the Department of the West with headquarters at San Francisco. Tribune Photos.

A famous trio—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, Charlie Chaplin, and Douglas Fairbanks, at the studio of the latter, where "Doug" was host at a Wild West Show given in honor of the great American Ace. W. N. U.

"Wild men and women" at the Police Games at Sheephead Bay last Saturday, parading in their savage guise despite the rain. On ordinary days and for ordinary purposes these barbarians are street cleaners, firemen, policemen and scrubwomen. Paul Thompson.

Saturday night comes but twice a year for Hattie, heavyweight champion of the Bronx Zoo. Semi-annually the great elephant lies obediently on her side, while her keepers scrub her thoroughly and then anoint her many square yards of hide with oil. I. F. B.

Here's one of Italy's brand new super-dirigibles, one of several that are making daily passenger trips between Rome and Milan. One great gondola car (instead of four, as has the R-34), but it's a double-decker—the above photo shows the upper deck with the passenger seats in the foreground and beyond the pilot house. Central News.

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot and her sturdy young son. Mrs. Pinchot is one of the noted suffragists of Pennsylvania. Now that the Keystone State has ratified the Federal Suffrage Amendment, Mrs. Pinchot announces publicly her fealty to the Republican party. Paul Thompson.

Down where the Budweiser used to flow the toothsome mushroom now sprouts. The transformation of its be-piped cellar into a thriving mushroom farm is one brewery's answer to the vexing question of what use are the erstwhile thirst quencher factories now that the U. S. has followed Sahara's example.
