

With a wing clearance of only 15 feet, a 120-h. b. Nieuport plane successfully flies through the Arc de Triomphe, in Paris. Navarre, the famous French ace, was recently killed testing out a 'plane preparatory to attempting the same stunt. Below, to the left—Charles Godefroy, the French pilot, who daringly negotiated this remarkable performance. Reynolds View.

Of course you don't recognize him in civies, or, as they say abroad, in mafts. Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty, commander in chief of the British Grand Fleet during the Great War—an interested spectator at a recent British agricultural fair. W. S. V.

Three photos of the Prince of Wales in Canada. Left—At the Halifax Quost Club he signs the guest book and grins when asked if he is signing the pledge. He proves otherwise (right) by drinking his host's health in some of the club's famous punche. All Halifax declared a holiday to get at good look at their future King. Below—Accompanied by the Duke of Devonshire, Governor General of Canada, the royal visitor leaves the legislative buildings at Quebec after receiving the city's highest honor. Central News—P. R.

William T. Tilden, 2d, of Philadelphia, is one of 1919's tennis sensations and is the choice of many experts as the probable winner of the national singles title at the championship matches now in progress at Forest Hills, L. I. Wide World.

Little Miss Virginia Waibel Brooklyn's charming four-year-old aviatrix, who made her second flight last Sunday. To the right her mother and on the left Pilot D. C. De Hart, of the U. S. Mail Service, who guided the 'plane. Kaplan Service.

The International Labor Congress in session at Amsterdam. Delegates from seventeen countries, representing 18,000,000 organized workers attended. Samuel Gompers (X), President of the American Federation of Labor, and at the right of him the other two American delegates, D. J. Tobin and J. J. Hynes. Wide World Photo.

A new photograph of Europe's royal family of fliers, Queen Elizabeth, Crown Prince Leopold and King Albert of Belgium, just after landing from a long flight over their war-torn kingdom. They are due to visit America next month. P. R. S.

Not corpses, but dress forms, outside a clothing store in Liverpool during the recent riots brought on by a police strike. Nearly 400 shops were wrecked and looted, many were wounded and over $1,500,000 damage done before government troops with fixed bayonets and drove them from the streets. For days all shops were barricaded and many people were afraid to venture outdoors. Graphic News Bureau.

The spacious decks of the U. S. S. Nevada afford a splendid open-air ballroom for hundreds of Jacks and Jills during a recent afternoon dance given by the K. of C. and the Jewish Welfare Board at League Island Navy Yard, Philadelphia. Ledger Photo Service.

British troops from India arrived too late to participate in London's great Victory parade, so they had a special review of their own. A regiment of these dinky turbaned fighters is shown on their way to Buckingham Palace, where they were inspected by their Emperor, King George. Central News.

A new photograph of Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the President, who returned here after a tour of the overseas troops. Underwood.

Men, women and children with all kinds of conveyances storm Berlin's gas works in an effort to secure coal. The fuel situation in Germany is most serious and the coal shortage painfully acute. Underwood.

Sergeant Dan Daly, of Brooklyn, who went over with the Marines, the most decorated man in the service. His decorations include the French Medal Militaire, Congressional Medal and D. S. C. Reynolds View.

The U. S. S. Idaho arrives at Rio de Janeiro, bearing home from America Dr. Epitacio Pessoa, the new President of Brazil. Insert—President Pessoa is joyously welcomed by an enthusiastic crowd of silk-hatted Brazilians. Standing beside him in the open carriage is Captain Vogelgesang, of the Idaho, while beside them is Mrs. Pessoa. Wide World Photo.

England's giant dirigible, the R-34, hovers over the dome of the famous St. Paul's Cathedral in London long enough for the photographers to catch these two masterpieces on the same film. Central News.

Left—You guessed wrong. He's James J. McCabe, a district superintendent of New York schools, photographed at the capital, where he had all kinds of fun at the expense of Washingtonians. Ledger Photo.

A score of 611 out of a possible 650 brought the National Rifle Association gold medal to Lieutenant J. A. Zimmerman, of Texas and the U. S. Marines, at the recent shooting championships at Caldwell, N. J. Paul Thompson.