

Cardinal Mercier, escorted by Anning S. Prall, president of New York's Board of Education, inspecting the ranks of school children drawn up at the stadium of the College of the City of New York during the remarkable reception recently held in honor of Belgium's heroic prelate.

Right—Thomas Edison returns to the scene of his early labors to see the tablet at 257 Pearl Street, erected in 1907 to celebrate electric lighting for New York.

Left—Secretary of War Baker's new assistant, Miss Hannah Patterson, formerly a member of the Women's Committee of the Council of National Defence and the proud possessor of the D. S. C., awarded for her splendid war work.

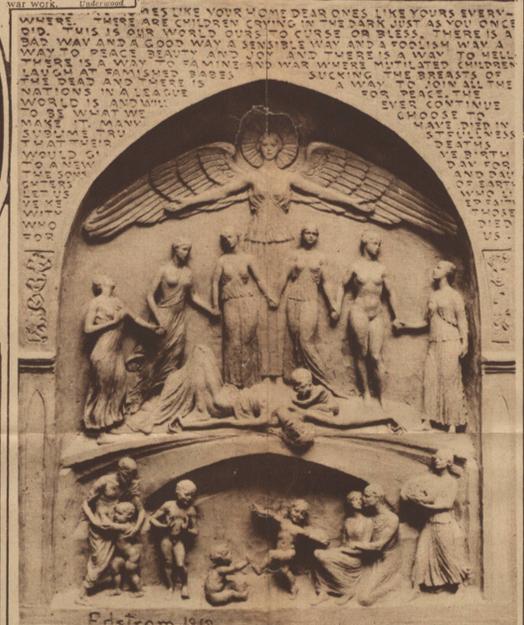

'Tis moving day for William Hohenzollern—the ex-Kaiser's furniture and personal belongings are removed by truck from Berlin to his Holland retreat at Amerongen. One of the octet of baggage smashers celebrates the end of the trip by standing on his head.

Right—Mrs. A. E. Smith, wife of Governor Smith, pulls the cord that unveils White Plains' memorial monument to the veterans of the world's war.

Boy Scouts of Catskill display the flag of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, which is being carried afoot from Buffalo to Oyster Bay, and will arrive at the Roosevelt home on the Colonel's birthday, October 27. A star is sewn on in each of the forty-eight towns at which the flag stops.

Right—Talking it over in Washington. Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and John D. Rockefeller, jr., discussing the problems of the great Industrial Conference in progress at the Pan-American Union Building.

Left—Mme. Clemenceau-Jacquemarie, the distinguished daughter of Premier Clemenceau of France, who arrives in New York next week to begin a country-wide lecture tour on "The Soul of France" for the purpose of promoting a better understanding between the two countries.

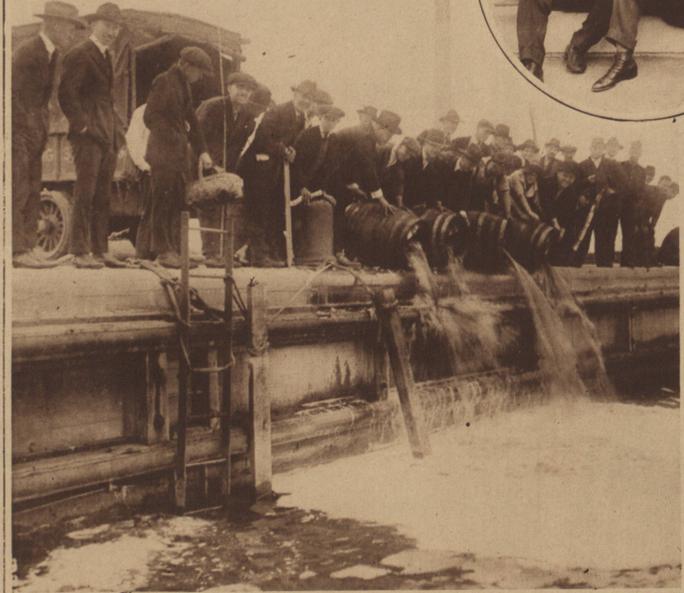

Clay model of a bas-relief by David Edstrom, one of New York's greatest sculptors, which he calls the "Significance of the League of Nations." The Angel of Peace is pictured hovering over two groups of figures, symbolizing the friendly unity of nations and a happy, normal family, while in their midst appears an image of horror, representing the abnormal conditions to which hatred and war give birth.

Right—The latest thing in railroad yard engines. High powered, consumes hay instead of coal, doesn't belong to a union, has an utter disregard for an eight-hour day, uses its head and has an abundance of push and pull.

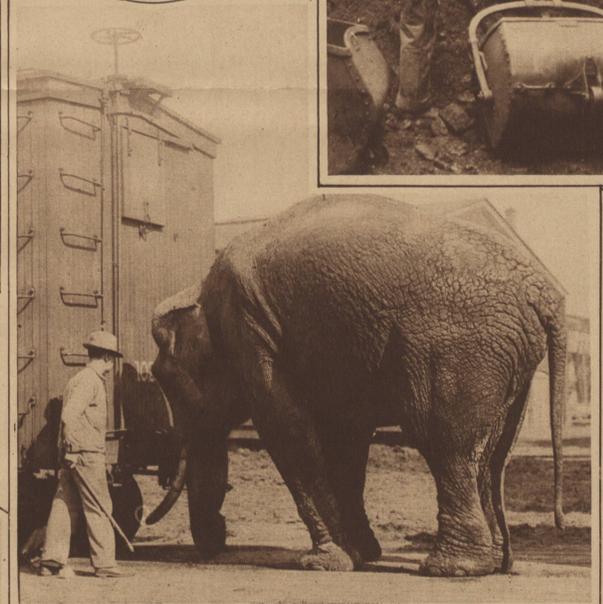

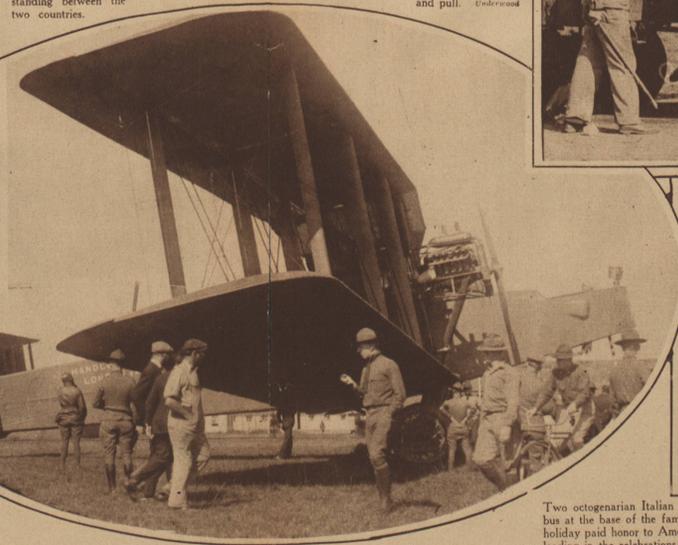

Uncle Sam's army boys can be counted on every time. Here is a quartet of them from Camp Merritt taking the place of striking longshoremen and making short work of coaling the transport Mercury at Hoboken.

Right—Miss Pauline Hall, of "Apple Blossoms," causes a sensation when she leads her pet deer (formerly a mascot of the old 69th) for a daily stroll through the Fifth Avenue crowds.

Left—At Briggs puts it, "Somebody is always taking the joy out of life." Here's what happened in Chicago when Judge Landis discovered that several kegs of the stuff that made Milwaukee famous had a batting average of better than 2.75.

Right—The giant Handley-Page bomber, one of the original transatlantic entries, finally reaches Mineola after a flight from Nova Scotia. The huge plane paid New York a visit last Tuesday, circling the Woolworth Building, and as a tribute to Thomas A. Edison soared over West Orange. N. J. Admiral Mark Kerr is in command and Major Sprackley is his pilot. On its way from Nova Scotia gasoline ran low and the plane descended for an overnight stop at Greenport, L. I.

Two octogenarian Italian heroes of bygone days celebrated last Monday by paying homage to Christopher Columbus at the base of the famous statue at Columbus Circle. Thirty-four states which now observe October 12 as a holiday paid honor to America's discoverer last Monday. Knights of Columbus and Italian-American organizations leading in the celebrations.

Ambassador Jusserand presents in the name of De Grasse, a city of Southern France, a bronze statue to Secretary of the Navy Daniels for the U. S. S. Seattle, the first American warship escorting troops to arrive in France after the beginning of the war. Rear Admiral Niblack stands behind Mr. Daniels and Rear Admiral McKee behind Mr. Jusserand. The U. S. S. Seattle was Rear Admiral Cleaves' flagship. The statue itself is shown on the left.