

A recent and probably one of the most striking photographs ever taken of that famous Paris landmark, the Eiffel Tower, the tallest man-made structure in the world (984 feet), as viewed through the gates of the Trocadero. There are three platforms at different levels—the first, at the 189-foot level, is nearly an acre in area. Eiffel Tower is the most powerful wireless station in France—during the war it served as an observation post against raiding aircraft.

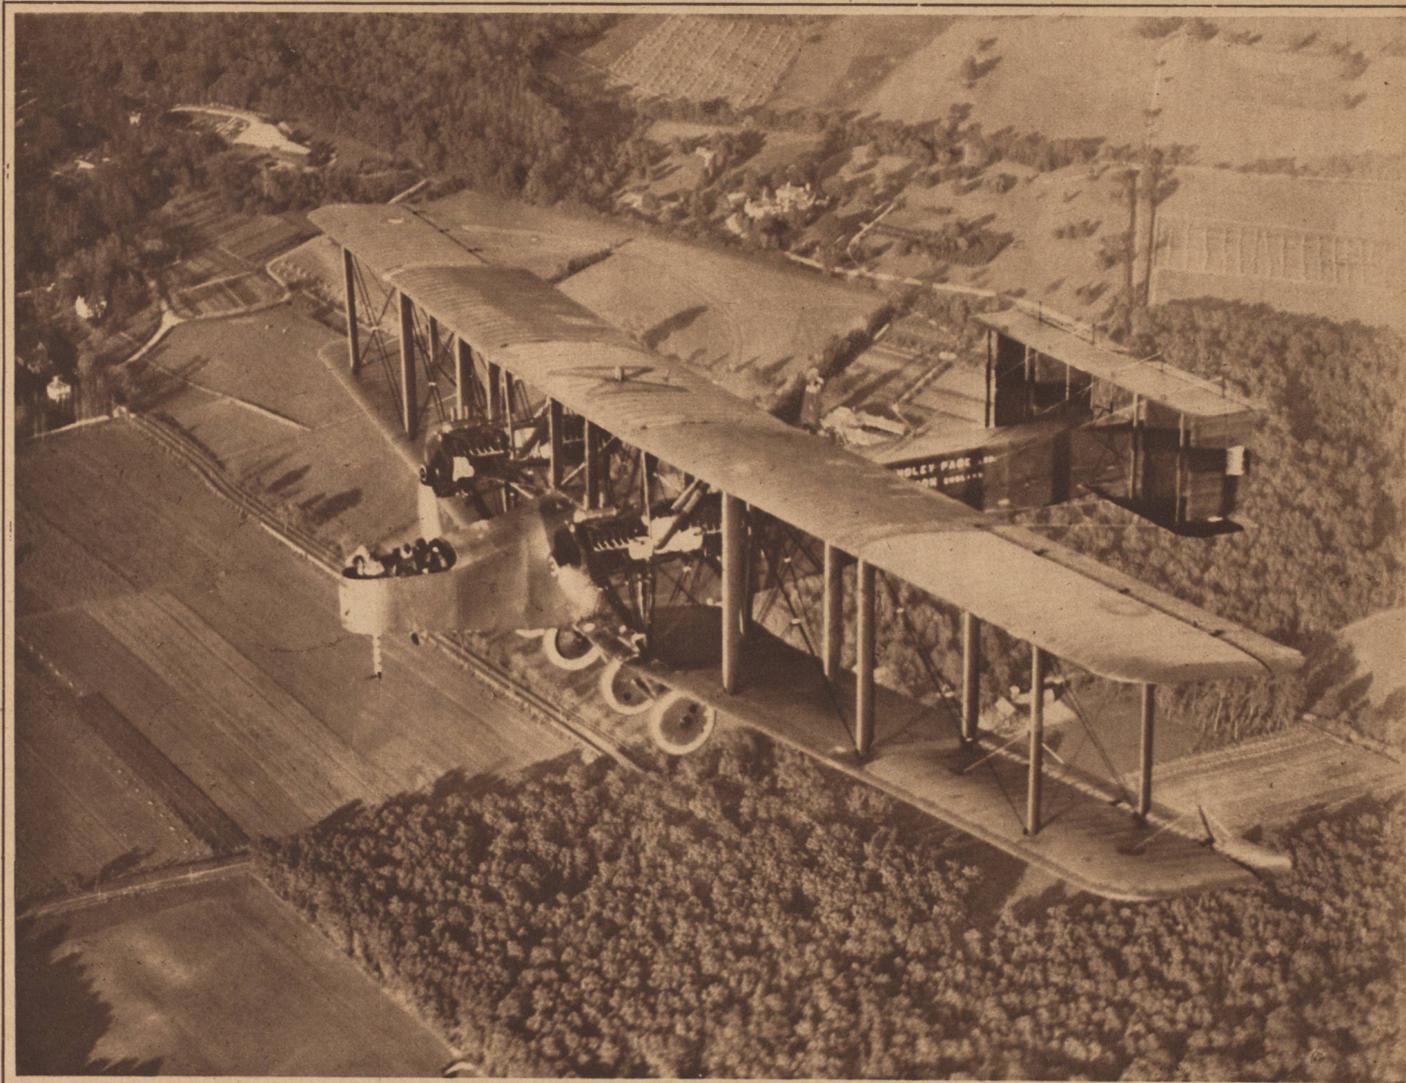

© Keystone View Co.

During England's recent great railway strike lords, dukes, generals, colonels and the upper classes generally jumped in with a vim to keep the wheels of England's transportation turning. Here is Lord Montagu, of Beaulieu, at the throttle of an express train, which he drove between Bournemouth and London, on the L. & S. W. Railroad.

Central News

Right—The giant Handley-Page plane Atlantic, which recently flew from Nova Scotia to Mineola, as seen in action flying over Long Island at a height of 1,500 feet. This plane is the largest in America, with a wing spread of 126 feet. Note the unobstructed view passengers get from the open cockpit forward of the motors.

Playtime Snaps of Cabinet Kiddies in Washington

This bobbed-haired young lady is Miss Betty Baker in action on the tennis courts in Potomac Park. Her father answers to the name of Newton. W. N. U.

The Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. David F. Houston's sturdy daughter, Helen Beal Houston, has evidently forsaken the tricycle for a boy's velocipede for her morning spin in Washington. W. N. U.

The Secretary of Agriculture's handsome six-year-old lad, Lawrence Reid Houston, is an expert kiddie-car chauffeur. W. N. U.

Left—Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer's pretty ten-year-old daughter, Mary Dixon Palmer, exceeding the speed limit on her scooter car. W. N. U.

Right—Jack, a second edition of his father, Newton D. Baker, proves himself a coming tennis champ. W. N. U.