

Two great locomotives arrive in Chicago from a Far Western trip with an unordered and unconsign cargo of snow and ice, having traveled most of the way home just on the edge of the fierce blizzard which has been holding the West in its grip. International

A new and exclusive photograph of Kermit Roosevelt. With his mother, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, he recently sailed for South America on an extended business trip. Upon his return he plans to live in New York. Underwood

Left—Mack Sennett bathing girls? Guess again—they're six beauties from the chorus of "All Aboard for Jazzland," a musical comedy being produced for three nights in a Chicago theater by stenographers and typists of the Federal Reserve Bank. Do you think your stenog could qualify? International

General Kolchak and his allied staff line up for a snapshot before evacuating the anti-Bolsheviki headquarters at Omsk from which they were driven by the army of the Reds. The new capital of the All-Russian government is at Irkutsk. Mivsoff

Left—Another Bolshevistic blaze. A photograph just received from Russia showing the destruction of Perm by the Reds after its evacuation by Kolchak's army. Mivsoff

Sledding winter or summer—on runners or on wheels—is a favorite sport of both young and old in Vienna. Here's the sled that makes it possible in the hands of a buxom Austrian fraulein. Press Illustrating

Mrs. Barclay E. Warburton, daughter of John Wanamaker, who has been appointed by Governor Sproule of Pennsylvania as one of the state commission on Constitutional Amendments. Underwood

Right—New photo of Colonel William Thaw, America's pioneer ace, winner of the D. S. C., Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor. In the two final months of the war his command, the Third Pursuit Group, engaged in 165 fights, and shot down 52 planes. Underwood

Right—Mlle. Martha Gauthier, the great war's greatest heroine, who was enthusiastically greeted last Wednesday by many war veterans on her arrival from France. As a war nurse she served both France and America in the front line trenches, was wounded four times and served in a German prison camp. The French government has decorated her with the Legion of Honor, the Medaille Militaire and the Croix de Guerre. International

Talk about your weird jobs! Consider the window tickling profession. There's no choking off the alarm clock and creeping back to bed over in Yorkshire, England. This window tickler is a sure remedy for oversleeping. The tickler wielders have formed a union and boosted their rates. Underwood
