

FIRST AUTHENTIC PHOTOGRAPH OF GENERAL CLAY'S CHILD WIFE.

Valley View, Ky., Dec. 19.—The child wife of General Cassius M. Clay has at last been photographed, and the Journal prints the first reproduction of the negative. She has persistently refused to sit for her portrait, but an itinerant photographer appeared at the house of Clell Richardson, her brother, where she is stopping, and asked if he could not take a family group. He pretended that he thought she was a widow. Mrs. Clay was in bed when he first arrived, but after some parley she arose, dressed, walked out on the porch, assisted by Willie Bryant, Richardson's wife's brother. She held in her hand a fine china cup, which General Clay had given her two years ago. She sat patiently until the photographer could focus his lens, but after he had exposed the plate she seemed to be very sorry that she had sat for her picture, and offered him $50 if he would destroy the negative then and there. The relations between General Cassius M. Clay and his wife, Dora, have been rather strained for some time. She has for a month been living with her brother and his wife in a hut not far from her husband's handsome home. She has been very ill for the past two weeks, and there was a rumor that she had concluded to return to her husband last week, but she put the matter off, alleging the bad weather as a reason. Willie Bryant, the brother of Clell Richardson's wife, is a handsome young man, who is reported to be strongly attached to the young woman. There is a suggestion of a romance between the young people, who are nearly the same age. The latest development in the case is a charge which Clell Richardson makes against Eldred L. Haden, a merchant of Valley View, blaming him for Dora's delay in returning to her husband. Haden denies the insinuation.

A Most Remarkable Display.

The Journal has received every assurance that the various displays will be the most beautiful and varied ever seen in this country. For instance, many of the city theatres will send enormous floats, upon which will be tableaux representing scenes from the current attractions. The great business houses of the city are expected to be represented in some such way, and all these, together with the marching men and the throngs of masqueraders, will make the spectacle absolutely unprecedented in the history of this fun-loving and sports-loving nation. The Italian citizens of Greater New York have promptly responded to the Journal's plan for a great carnival to celebrate the birth of the new metropolis. In New York and Brooklyn are one hundred and forty-four Italian societies—military, musical and social. Corner-elect Antonio Zocca spent all of yesterday visiting presidents of these organizations, and arranging for the calling of special meetings to-day. Officers and members of the Fraternal Associations are thoroughly interested. The society manages the Mardi Gras ceremonies every year, and its participation in these features of unusual interest and brilliancy.

Already Two Grand Floats are Projected.

The first will portray Romulus and Remus and incidents relating to the founding of Rome, the Eternal City. The second float will present five young women, typifying the five boroughs of Greater New York. The Fraternal Associations has seven hundred members, and is strong enough to accomplish whatever it undertakes. The Guard Garibaldi, it is hoped, will be able to turn out fully 100 men, all in the historic re-surfaced uniform of the Liberator. They will be one of the striking features of the parade.

A Hundred Horsemen.

The Nisi Cavalieri will turn out 100 mounted men, with the showy trappings of the organization. This company will probably precede the Italian display, because its commander is known and favorably regarded in all the fraternal and musical societies. Especially gratifying is the endorsement of the Journal's proposed carnival by the Italian newspapers.

No matter what You have for sale, Try Journal "Wants."

Use Journal "Wants"—20 words—20 cents. Use Journal "Wants"—10 words—10 cents.

Hall, New York; M. Schwarz, Liberty and Progress Hall, New York; J. O. Carlin, Old Fellow Hall, New York; P. Anderson, Teutonia Hall, New York; L. Wendt, Assembly Rooms, New York; J. W. Fleck, Bethaven Hall, New York; John Stimmel, Germania Hall, New York; G. W. Leahy, American Theatre Hall, New York; George C. Engel, Mannerheim Hall, New York; J. Kelle, Prospect Hall, Brooklyn; H. Winter, Teutonia Hall, Brooklyn; A. G. Braun, Washington Park, New York; L. I. Diaz, Metropolitan Park, Brooklyn; S. A. Weber, Washington Hall, Brooklyn; C. Lager, Saugebund Hall, Brooklyn; C. Deekmann, Palm Garden, Brooklyn; Charles Linden, Bavaria, Volstead, Yonkers; Charles Bransford, Comstock Volkfest Verein; A. Rothmann, Comstock Volkfest Verein; F. G. Puchs, Hetsischer Volkfest Verein; Adam Keller, Badischer Volkfest Verein; Adam Goetz, Prager Volkfest Verein; C. Gohard, Hessen Darmstadter Volkfest Verein.

Singing Societies—G. M. Olinde, Bethoven Mannerheim; John W. Fleck, Bethoven Mannerheim; Theo. Krieger and Emil Grahner, Eisenbahn Gesangverein; Bernhard Schneider, Kreuzer Quartette; G. Pache, Frau Abt.

Schuetzen Gesellschaften—Gus Zimmerman, Independent; New York Schuetzen Verein; A. Lohle, German American Schuetzen Verein; A. Heizer, Germania Schuetzen Verein; Geo. Bissell, Manhattan Schuetzen Verein; Fritz Baumann, New York Central Schuetzen Corps; Charles F. Koelz and D. Meesse, New York Schuetzen Corps; H. Radtke, New York City Schuetzen Corps; Lorenz Zeller, Harmon Independent Schuetzen Verein; Franz Schupfart, New York Schuetzen Verein; Richard Mueller, Kriegerbund; George Geydout, East River Butcher Guild; Ches. Cordes, New York Confectioners; Louis Sigloch, New York Bachelors Guild; Walter H. Godeburg, New York Retail Grocers; Wm. Spitz, Confectioners' Guild; Vincent W. Wyvleck, Bohemian Societies.

Very earnest and enthusiastic indeed is the encouragement which the Journal has received in this undertaking. This support and offer of co-operation comes not alone from the humble, but from the rich and powerful. Hundreds of young boys and girls have written to offer their aid, and such men as Chauncey M. Depew, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Jr., Chief of Police McGuinnis, Richard Croker, Chief of Detectives McClosky, all the police inspectors and the Commissioners, prominent clergymen of the greater city, the editor of the Sun, Judges of the Supreme and Criminal courts, merchants and bankers, professional men of all classes—all have written the Journal wishing it unqualified success in making this festival worthy of so momentous an occasion.

And the Journal, with the generous cooperation of the people of the Greater New York and its friends near by, will do it.

Where to Find Work! 5,880 MORE HELP WANTS WEPE PRINTED IN NOVEMBER THAN SAME MONTH LAST YEAR.

Dr. Lyman Abbott lends his lecture on "Paul the Apostle" last night the occasion for the declaration that there will be another Bible, a new inspired Word, which will stirle and convince all mankind. Just how soon or through whom or in what shape this new message from God will come, Dr. Abbott did not disclose.

Now, if you've been unlucky in business, Don't grow like a salt crust-tossed. Try a winning "Want" ad. in the Journal. And you will regain what you've lost.

Wee Prisoner Set Free. LITTLE ESTHER GROTSKY, who was arrested Saturday night after the death of her sister's fourteen-month-old baby, which she dropped on the sidewalk, was arraigned before Magistrate Crane, in Essex Market Court, yesterday morning. Gerry Agent Pisano, explained that

HURLED AND WHIRLING KNIVES.

An Apparent Accident Now Called a Foul Murder.

OLCOTT'S SECRET OUT.

A Mother's Letter from Ireland Gives the Police the First Clue.

FIGHT IN BREAD FACTORY.

Peter Doggett's Fate Sets the Law to Unravelling a New Mystery.

SISTER SEEKS TO AVENGE DEATH

Her Mother Writes of "A—" Who Has Told of Receiving a Bribe to Withhold What He Saw.

District Attorney Olcott admitted grudgingly a few days ago that the criminal machinery of the city was engaged in the solution of a murder mystery of an extraordinary character. Such indeed it is. Captain McClosky, chief of the Detectives Curran, said yesterday that what was supposed at the time to be a shocking accident in the factory of the New York Biscuit Company, has been almost conclusively proved to be a murder.

Peter Doggett, an Irish youth, was one day last August ground to death in a mixing vat at the factory. His death by machinery was one of the accidents recorded by the newspapers of Sunday, August 16. Early in the morning of the 18th, Doggett, returning from his breakfast to the mixing rooms of the company's factory, at No. 47 West Fifth-street, took his station at the vat in the second room of the six which go to make up the third floor.

Each of the rooms is divided by a partition, with the usual connecting door in the centre. In Doggett's room was the digit of stairs leading to the floor below.

Four workmen, Thomas Hogan, John Lawlor, Frank McInnes and John Cusker, in the cutting room adjoining, heard a cry, a scream as of a human creature in supreme agony, and ran in to find Doggett's body held fast in the whirling flanges.

Early in the morning of the 18th, Doggett, returning from his breakfast to the mixing rooms of the company's factory, at No. 47 West Fifth-street, took his station at the vat in the second room of the six which go to make up the third floor.

Each of the rooms is divided by a partition, with the usual connecting door in the centre. In Doggett's room was the digit of stairs leading to the floor below.

Four workmen, Thomas Hogan, John Lawlor, Frank McInnes and John Cusker, in the cutting room adjoining, heard a cry, a scream as of a human creature in supreme agony, and ran in to find Doggett's body held fast in the whirling flanges.

Early in the morning of the 18th, Doggett, returning from his breakfast to the mixing rooms of the company's factory, at No. 47 West Fifth-street, took his station at the vat in the second room of the six which go to make up the third floor.

Each of the rooms is divided by a partition, with the usual connecting door in the centre. In Doggett's room was the digit of stairs leading to the floor below.

Four workmen, Thomas Hogan, John Lawlor, Frank McInnes and John Cusker, in the cutting room adjoining, heard a cry, a scream as of a human creature in supreme agony, and ran in to find Doggett's body held fast in the whirling flanges.

Early in the morning of the 18th, Doggett, returning from his breakfast to the mixing rooms of the company's factory, at No. 47 West Fifth-street, took his station at the vat in the second room of the six which go to make up the third floor.

Each of the rooms is divided by a partition, with the usual connecting door in the centre. In Doggett's room was the digit of stairs leading to the floor below.

Four workmen, Thomas Hogan, John Lawlor, Frank McInnes and John Cusker, in the cutting room adjoining, heard a cry, a scream as of a human creature in supreme agony, and ran in to find Doggett's body held fast in the whirling flanges.

Early in the morning of the 18th, Doggett, returning from his breakfast to the mixing rooms of the company's factory, at No. 47 West Fifth-street, took his station at the vat in the second room of the six which go to make up the third floor.

Each of the rooms is divided by a partition, with the usual connecting door in the centre. In Doggett's room was the digit of stairs leading to the floor below.

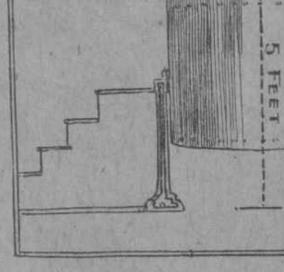

Four workmen, Thomas Hogan, John Lawlor, Frank McInnes and John Cusker, in the cutting room adjoining, heard a cry, a scream as of a human creature in supreme agony, and ran in to find Doggett's body held fast in the whirling flanges.

Early in the morning of the 18th, Doggett, returning from his breakfast to the mixing rooms of the company's factory, at No. 47 West Fifth-street, took his station at the vat in the second room of the six which go to make up the third floor.

Each of the rooms is divided by a partition, with the usual connecting door in the centre. In Doggett's room was the digit of stairs leading to the floor below.

Four workmen, Thomas Hogan, John Lawlor, Frank McInnes and John Cusker, in the cutting room adjoining, heard a cry, a scream as of a human creature in supreme agony, and ran in to find Doggett's body held fast in the whirling flanges.

APPARENT ACCIDENT MAY PROVE A FOUL MURDER.

Peter Doggett met a horrible death last August in the New York Biscuit Company's factory. He was chopped to pieces by the sharp blades of a cylinder wherein dough was being mixed. It was thought at the time to be an accident. Now the police believe that he was shoved into the death-pit and that it was a dark murder.

FAMILY SWEPT AWAY.

Three Have Died Within Ten Days and Three More are Dying.

It was a sad and affecting scene that took place in the home of the Helm family, in Marzolin avenue, Arlington, N. J., on Saturday night, when brief funeral services were held for Mrs. Mable Richards, who died early in the morning from typhoid fever. While the Rev. John Keller spoke words of comfort, Mrs. Helm, the mother, tossed and raved in delirium in her room upstairs. The fever and grief had deprived her of reason. Her husband and two oldest children died within the last ten days from typhoid fever. Sadie, eight years old, is in St. Barnabas Hospital. Harry, the other child, six years old, is ill in a room adjoining his mother's. He will recover.

Two years ago George Helm, a son, was decapitated while crossing the Greenwood Lake Railroad track, in front of the Arlington Station. Mr. Helm almost went crazy with grief. Next day, when the boy's grandmother was told of his death, she dropped dead. Ever since then misfortune and trouble has visited the family. Mr. Helm failed in business and lost all he had. Mable, the eldest daughter, who died on Saturday, was married about a year ago to Chester Richards, of Dumont, N. J., where the young couple started housekeeping. Mrs. Richards made birth to a child a short time ago. Richards is prostrated with grief.

SPAIN'S WAR ON THE JOURNAL

Continued from First Page.

police, unexplained property, intimating that some one connected with the bureau was suspected of connection with various unsuccessful efforts to dynamite the building.

Ordones is an autonomist himself, and personally resenting the Journal's attacks on Sagasta's home rule force and its earnest work in behalf of Cuba Libre, was only too ready to carry out the suggestion.

Blacky Musgrave, though warned to leave and menaced with vengeance by the Spanish intrusives and autonomists, has taken other quarters uptown, and, much to the disappointment of the Spaniards, continues without serious interruption his duties as a special correspondent of the New York Journal and London Chronicle, though counting upon neither moral support from General Lee nor protection in the event of an emergency from the British Consul-General, who once said to another Englishman who visited Havana as a correspondent: "If you come to Cuba and intend to trouble with the Spanish authorities, don't come to me."

It was this same Consul who refused succor to Black and White's artist, Hughes, who was robbed and maltreated by Spanish soldiers in Pinar del Rio and who afterward died of hunger in the streets of Havana, while awaiting remittances from home.

Musgrave, previous to his Cuban assignment was with the British in Egypt Egipt as a war correspondent and was with Bartenberg upon General Scott's staff in West Africa. He bears several wounds received while soldiering under the flag of St. George.

DR. ABBOTT A PROPHET.

He Declares That There Will Be a New Inspired Word of God for Mankind.

Dr. Lyman Abbott lends his lecture on "Paul the Apostle" last night the occasion for the declaration that there will be another Bible, a new inspired Word, which will stirle and convince all mankind. Just how soon or through whom or in what shape this new message from God will come, Dr. Abbott did not disclose.

Now, if you've been unlucky in business, Don't grow like a salt crust-tossed. Try a winning "Want" ad. in the Journal. And you will regain what you've lost.

Waterstown, N. Y., Dec. 18.—Bazie Rowe, scarcely twenty-two years old, formerly a post-telegraph operator at a bus station on the railroad a few miles from this city, went to West Paterson, N. Y., a small place near New York, and was employed as an operator on the New York & New England Railroad. While there he became acquainted with Miss Lottie Peck, a prominent young lady of that place, and three years ago they eloped and were married in Kingston, Canada. Later they returned to West Paterson to care for the grandfather and grandmother of Mrs. Rowe.

At the death of the grandfather, he left in the will $20,000 to Mrs. Rowe. The grandmother died later, and added $15,000 to that amount.

Mrs. Rowe's mother began three suits to break the will, but the courts in New York decided against her. Mr. and Mrs. Rowe have returned to this city, and will leave soon for Kingston, to make it their future home.

BRYAN AN HONORED GUEST

President Diaz Attends Official Ceremonies at Which the Distinguished American Was Present.

City of Mexico, Dec. 18.—William Jennings Bryan was an honored guest in this city to-day. Official ceremonies were held in which President Diaz took part. These included the distribution of prizes to exhibitors, among whom were some from Chicago and Atlanta. Lady exhibitors were among the prize winners, which is an unusual feature here. Members of the Cabinet and of the Diplomatic Corps were present in Alameda Pavilion, portions of which were artistically decorated with the Mexican flag and American colors. A single Mexican flag enveloped the entire audience, in which were the elite of Mexico and hundreds of Americans.

APPARENT ACCIDENT MAY PROVE A FOUL MURDER.

Peter Doggett met a horrible death last August in the New York Biscuit Company's factory. He was chopped to pieces by the sharp blades of a cylinder wherein dough was being mixed. It was thought at the time to be an accident. Now the police believe that he was shoved into the death-pit and that it was a dark murder.

PLATT STIRS UP A HORNET'S NEST.

His Selections for State and City Patronage Raises a Row.

WHIPPLE'S SCALP IN PERIL.

Score of Senators Pledged to Knife His Clerkship Aspirations.

Senator Platt passed a most expasperating Sunday. From the breakfast hour until late at night leaders from country and city districts trooped to his Fifth avenue apartments with tales of contests they were having to maintain even the semblance of a machine in their districts.

To add to his discomfiture the rivalry for Legislative offices and the few others which fall to the organization here, waxed more bitter the more it is prolonged. What worried Senator Platt most, apparently, was the disputes over the clerkship of the State Senate and the Police Commissionerships to which the machine is entitled in the Greater New York. All day protests rained down against the appointment of James S. Whipple as clerk of the Upper House at Albany, while scarcely less vigorous were the criticisms of Mr. Platt's intention to recommend William E. Phillips, brother-in-law of City Works Commissioner Theodore B. Willis, of Brooklyn, and other Thomas L. Hamilton or John P. Windolph for Police Commissioners.

When the Senator retired, however, he had taken the bit in his teeth and seemed more determined than ever that his personal desires should be heeded, no matter how many more might desert him.

Senator George R. Maly called on Senator Platt, who is the representative of Charles A. Ball, who is fighting to prevent Whipple from succeeding to John S. Kenyon as Clerk of the Senate. He ran against ex-Senator Vedder, who is managing Whipple's campaign through Vedder's law firm at the time. Maly frankly told the Senator that Ball had concluded to fight Whipple to the bitter end, and that he was being urged to do so by a majority of the Republican Senators. Just before the session ended in the Spring, it was explained in the Senate, thirty-one of the thirty-six Republican senators had pledged themselves to support him in case the organization declared for him.

Since Whipple's candidacy was announced twenty-one of the Republican Senators, he said, had written Ball personal letters urging him to fight, and renewing their pledges of allegiance. Intimations that Ball might be thrown out of his present position as deputy clerk did not force Maly in the least.

Before Maly had received a definite reply from Senator Platt he was interrupted by Senator Vedder and the intervention terminated. Maly went back to the Metropole, where Ball was in consultation with Senators Davis, of Greene; Ford, of this city; and others of his backers. It was decided to call upon Senator Platt to-day and suggest that Whipple be made either Deputy Senate Clerk or Clerk Baxter's deputy in the Assembly. Senator Platt finally refused to withdraw Whipple from the race, where they claim they can down Platt's scalps, but pledged themselves to support him in case the organization declared for him.

It was this same Consul who refused succor to Black and White's artist, Hughes, who was robbed and maltreated by Spanish soldiers in Pinar del Rio and who afterward died of hunger in the streets of Havana, while awaiting remittances from home.

Musgrave, previous to his Cuban assignment was with the British in Egypt Egipt as a war correspondent and was with Bartenberg upon General Scott's staff in West Africa. He bears several wounds received while soldiering under the flag of St. George.

ELOPEMENT BRINGS LUCK.

Wife That Harzie Rowe Ran Away with in West Paterson Inherits Two Fortunes.

Waterstown, N. Y., Dec. 18.—Bazie Rowe, scarcely twenty-two years old, formerly a post-telegraph operator at a bus station on the railroad a few miles from this city, went to West Paterson, N. Y., a small place near New York, and was employed as an operator on the New York & New England Railroad. While there he became acquainted with Miss Lottie Peck, a prominent young lady of that place, and three years ago they eloped and were married in Kingston, Canada. Later they returned to West Paterson to care for the grandfather and grandmother of Mrs. Rowe.

At the death of the grandfather, he left in the will $20,000 to Mrs. Rowe. The grandmother died later, and added $15,000 to that amount.

Mrs. Rowe's mother began three suits to break the will, but the courts in New York decided against her. Mr. and Mrs. Rowe have returned to this city, and will leave soon for Kingston, to make it their future home.

A SANTA CLAUS HINT.

4,233 "WANTS" Gained Last Week Over Same Week Last Year.

FACE HUMORS

Pimples, blotches, blackheads, red, rough, oily, mothy skin, itching, scaly scalp, dry, thin and falling hair, and every skin disease, are cured by CUTICURA SOAP, the most effective skin purifying and beautifying soap in the world, as well as purest and sweetest for toilet, bath and nursery.

OTICURA Use Journal "Wants."

who has been named for a place on the Commission by admiral. Austin delighted both Hamilton and Windolph by announcing that he had concluded not to be a candidate. He said he would wait until the next Assembly next year in the hope of succeeding O'Grady as Speaker. Senator Platt gave Hamilton and Windolph to understand that he had not yet made up his mind which of them to pick, but would if possible let them know their fate about Christmas day. The two neither believing that the other had not been positively placed on the slate. But after they had gone the Senator saw some banners thrown, particularly at Hamilton.

In the evening the Senator consulted with State Chairman Hackett and County Chairman Quigg. The latter showed figures to prove that at the Assembly District convention to-morrow night, Quigg could elect enough delegates to retain himself as nominal boss of the county machine.

NEGRO HIGHLY HONORED.

The Body of Mrs. Stowe's Hero Lay in State in Lexington, Ky., for Five Hours.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 19.—The funeral services of Lewis George Clark, the old madman, who was the prototype of George Harris in Mrs. Stowe's novel "Uncle Tom's Cabin," took place here in the A. M. E. Church at 2 o'clock p. m. The house was crowded with colored people, and probably one hundred whites were present.

Clark's body lay in state in the Main Street Auditorium for five hours to-day, an honor never before shown to the memory of a colored man in Kentucky. His son James, a law student in the Western Reserve University, at Cleveland, was the only relative present. Clark's body was shipped to Oberlin, O., where it will be buried by the side of his wife.

A man may talk of disdaining physical strength and prowess until Doomsday, but the fact remains that he cannot look at a picture of an old-time knight, magnificent in his physical power, and armed, ready and eager for a contest to the death with any comer, without a thrill.

Mental superiority is desirable and admirable, but it is the "game" when it is won at the expense of physical health and strength.

The unhealthy man may gain pity and even the admiration of men and women, but it is a question whether such a man ever thoroughly gains their respect. The man whose arteries bound with the rich, red blood of health carries with him a force and an intensity that command respect, even though he be slightly inferior mentally to the weak, nervous man. While no medicine in the world will add an inch to a man's stature, there is one famous medicine that will fill the veins and arteries with the rich, red, bounding blood of perfect health. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the great blood-maker and blood-purifier. When the blood is pure and rich and red and plenty, and filled with the life-giving elements that nourish every tissue of the body, it is impossible for a man to suffer from ill-health of any description. When every little blood-vessel in the lungs quivers with the rush of healthy blood, it is impossible to have unhealthy lungs. When the walls of the stomach are nourished with healthy blood, dyspepsia and indigestion are impossibilities. When the liver is supplied with healthy blood, it is bound to be active. The skin that is nourished with healthy blood will be clear and fresh and glow with health. "Discovery" is sold by druggists.

Mr. Isaac E. Downs, of Spring Valley, Rockland Co., N. Y., writes: "For three years I suffered from that terrible disease, consumption. I had wasted away to a skeleton. Today I tip the scales at 157, and am well and strong. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

A SANTA CLAUS HINT.

4,233 "WANTS" Gained Last Week Over Same Week Last Year.

FACE HUMORS

Pimples, blotches, blackheads, red, rough, oily, mothy skin, itching, scaly scalp, dry, thin and falling hair, and every skin disease, are cured by CUTICURA SOAP, the most effective skin purifying and beautifying soap in the world, as well as purest and sweetest for toilet, bath and nursery.

OTICURA Use Journal "Wants."